CUT MISSION STRENGTH BY 50%, INDIA TELLS PAK AMID DIPLOMATIC ROW

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

BILATERAL relations with Pakistan dipped sharply on Tuesday with India directing it to reduce the strength of its High Commission in New Delhi by half, holding it responsible for cross-border violence and terrorism.

According to a statement from the Ministry of External Affairs, Pakistan's charge d'affaires Syed Haider Shah was summoned to the ministry and informed about the decision. "Shah was told India will reciprocally reduce its diplomatic presence in Islamabad by the same proportion within a week," the ministry said.

More often than not, the treatment of diplomats in the Capital is a mirror image of the bilateral relationship.

"They have been engaged in acts of espionage and maintained dealings with terrorist organisations. The activities of the two officials caught red-handed and expelled on May 31 was one example in that regard," the statement said.

The decision to reduce the strength of the Pakistan High Commission by half comes a week after two Pakistan High Commission officials were arrested on charges of espionage and sent back. In what was seen as a tit-for-tat, Pakistani authorities arrested two Indian High Commission staffers for their alleged involvement in a hit-and-run case. They were later released and are back in India.

According to sources, the current strength of the Pakistan high commission is 110. However, both missions are not functioning at full strength after Islamabad drastically downgraded ties in August last year following the Centre's decision to scrap Article 370 in Jammu and Kashmir.

They even refused to send a high commissioner. Both missions are headed by deputy high commissioners.

This is, however, not the first time that Pakistan has been asked to reduce its strength in the High Commission. A similar decision was taken following the December 13, 2001 attack on Parliament. New Delhi has blamed Pakistan-based terror organisations for carrying out the attack.

US suspends H-1B visas, cites job losses

PUSHKAR BANAKAR AND BISMAH MALIK @ New Delhi

US President Donald Trump on Monday signed an executive order enabling the suspension of green cards and non-immigrant work visas such as the H-1B till December, a move that is likely to affect thousands of Indians.

However, the order said existing H-1B visa holders will not be impacted. The White House said the visa system will undergo a permanent overhaul in future making it merit based as opposed to the current lottery system.

The categories that have been suspended include H-4 (spouse of H-1B workers), H-2B (low-skilled workers), J (cultural and education workers) and L-1 (intra-company transfer).

The Trump administration claims that the freezing of visas was done due to the economic impact of the coronavirus lockdowns and to give priority to Americans in the wake of record unemployment levels. The move is expected to free up over five lakh jobs in the US market, officials say.

Indians are the largest beneficiaries of the H-1B visa, accounting for around three-fourths of the total 85,000 visas issued annually. Around four lakh Indians are in the US on the H-1B visa.

The biggest impact will be felt by IT bigwigs such as TCS, Cognizant, Tech Mahindra, Larsen and Toubro and Infosys. The companies saw a decline in H-1B visas by over 60% from 18,320 in 2015 to 6,885 in 2020. The H-1B denial rate has gone up to about 32%. P9

Disengage decision biggest takeaway

Will take a long time before both sides actually pull back from all friction points; Army Chief visits Leh

MAYANK SINGH & PUSHKAR BANAKAR
@New Delhi

INDIA and China decided to disengage from their stand-off positions in Eastern Ladakh during the marathon Corps Commander-level talks on Monday, but it will take a long time before forces actually move back on the ground. "Modalities for disengagement from all friction areas were discussed and will be taken forward by both sides," a highly placed source confirmed.

The decision was taken at the second meeting of Corps Commanders in Moldo on the Chinese side of the Line of Actual Control (LAC), which was held in a 'cordial, positive and constructive atmosphere'. But their first meeting on June 6 had similar sounding protocols, yet there was a bloody face-off at Galwan Valley on June 15, where 20 Indian jawans died in action. So, the Indian side is understandably wary.

The Indian delegation at Monday's talks was led by 14 Corps Commander Lt Gen Harinder Singh while the Chinese was headed by the Commander of the Tibet Military District Maj Gen Liu Lin.

"We must wait till the retreat of the Chinese soldiers actually begins on the ground," a source said. India has clearly reiterated its position that status quo ante must be restored in the areas of stand-off.

A senior officer aware of the situation said the entire process will take time as what was clinched was a broad agreement. "There will now be meetings between Division Commanders of both sides to work out the specifics." Sector Commanders will then get involved to firm up the nuts and bolts of the actual pullback. The retreat of soldiers will be in phases, the officer added.

At the diplomatic level, India took a veiled dig at China with External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar saying the world's leading voices should act in an exemplary manner by respecting international law and recognising the interests of partners.

At the military level, Army Chief General M M Naravane visited Ladakh's capital Leh to take stock of the situation.

Sinologist B R Deepak described the decision to disengage as a expression of intent. "It's not clear as yet, I think it is a statement of intent the way they made it on June 6 followed by a series of meetings at both military and diplomatic levels," said Deepak, who heads the Centre for Chinese and South Asian Studies at the Jawaharlal Nehru University. Anti-dumping duty on Chinese steel

New Delhi: The Department of Revenue has imposed anti-dumping duty on flat rolled zinc/aluminium coated steel originating or exported from China, Korea and Vietnam for five years. The notification said after complaints of many steelmakers, including Jindal Steels, the Directorate-General of Trade Remedies came to the conclusion that steel produced from these countries is exported to India below their normal subjected value, thus amount to dumping. The decision came after countrywide protest to ban products from China. Parallelly, the Centre tweaked rules to make it mandatory for all foreign firms registering fresh products for sale in India to mention the country of origin in the Government e-Marketplace. It will be mandatory for existing products too.

NO TALKS AT DEF MINISTER LEVEL, CHINA TOLD

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

IN a clear snub to Chinese Defence Minister Wei Fenghe, New Delhi on Tuesday rubbished any possibility of his holding talks with his visiting Indian counterpart Rajnath Singh in Moscow. Both are expected to attend the World War II Victory Day Parade in Russia on Wednesday.

Shortly after Chinese government mouthpiece Global Times did kite-flying on bilateral talks, Defence Ministry spokesperson A Bharat Bhushan Babu denied it.

"Chinese State Councilor and Defence Minister Wei Fenghe is expected to attend Russia's Victory Day parade in Moscow on Wednesday, and since Indian Defence Minister Rajnath Singh is also attending the event, the two will very likely meet in Moscow over border tensions between the two countries," wrote Global Times.

Rajnath Singh started his three-day visit to Russia on Monday.

Global Times quoted an expert to say if the meeting happens, it would contribute to easing the tense situation along the border in Ladakh.

Govt caps Covid treatment cost, private hospitals sore

IFFATH FATHIMA AND RANJANI MADHAVAN @Bengaluru

THOSE infected with the novel coronavirus and looking to get treated at a private hospital will have to shell out Rs 1.50 lakh for 15 days in a general ward. The cost goes up to Rs 1.80 lakh in a high-dependency unit (HDU), Rs 2.25 lakh for an Intensive Care Unit (ICU) and Rs 3.75 lakh for an ICU with ventilator. However, the actual number of days a Covid-19 patient is admitted can be longer or shorter, depending on whether they are asymptomatic or symptomatic.

On Tuesday, the Karnataka Government capped prices of treatment cost at private hospitals based on two categories — those referred by public health authorities and the other who approach private hospitals directly.

The package rates for Covid-19 patients referred by public health authorities, that is those covered under the Ayushman Bharat-Arogya Karnataka scheme, will be as Rs 5,200 per day for general ward, Rs 7,000 for HDU, Rs 8,500 for isolation ICU without ventilator and Rs 10,000 for isolation ICU with ventilator. The package ceiling rates at private hospitals for those who pay by cash will be Rs 10,000 per day for general ward, Rs 12,000 for HDU, Rs 15,000 for isolation ICU without ventilator and Rs 25,000 for isolation ICU with ventilator. These rates will not be applicable to patients subscribing to insurance packages. P4

IAS OFFICER NAMED IN IMA SCAM COMMITS SUICIDE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @BENGALURU

SENIOR IAS officer B M Vijayashankar, an accused in the multi-crore I Monetary Advisory scam, allegedly ended his life by hanging at his residence in Tilak Nagar police limits here on Tuesday evening. While the exact cause is being investigated, it is strongly suspected that the officer took his own life as he was depressed after his name surfaced in the scam and he was also arrested in the case.

Police said his family members reported to the police about the incident around 8 pm. "As Vijayashankar did not open his room door, his family members broke it open and found him hanging from the ceiling fan. Though they brought him down, he was dead by that time, after which they alerted us," an official said.

The police said that no suicide note was found and forensic experts were pressed into service. P5

Full lockdown? Maybe. Maybe not, say mantris

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IT isn't just the common citizens who are confused whether the Karnataka Government will implement another complete lockdown owing to the rising number of Covid-19 cases. Ministers themselves are not on the same page regarding the issue. A day after Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa asked officials to implement lockdown measures more stringently in clusters and hotspots, Karnataka was abuzz with murmurs that another complete lockdown is coming.

Adding to the worries, Health Minister B Sriramulu on Tuesday said there could be a lockdown if the number of cases keep rising. "Four wards in Bengaluru have already been sealed for 14 days. If the situation continues, we are thinking of implementing a complete lockdown in the entire Bengaluru city," he said while addressing the press.

However, he added that any such decision will come only after meeting with the Chief Minister, the Covid-19 task force, experts and other officials.

But his cabinet colleague and Revenue Minister R Ashoka struck a differing note when he said any decision to implement a lockdown will have to come from the Union Government after thorough monitoring of the situation. "The Union Government is monitoring the situation closely and any decision will come from there. We will take decisions based on experts' reports and it won't be a knee-jerk reaction. We can't impose a lockdown today and then lift it in some time. We won't reduce ourselves to a laughing stock", he said.

He added that the State Government had, only on Monday, decided to seal off adjoining roads in localities that report Covid-19 cases instead only the adjoining houses as was being done earlier. P3

LOCKDOWN SETS OFF PRICE SPIRAL IN CITY, COST OF LIVING SHOOTS UP

Hardship for common man as fuel, eating out, basic necessities cost more

BOSKY KHANNA & PREEJA PRASAD @Bengaluru

THE lockdown hit citizens where it hurts most, and a month on, continues to pinch hard — prices of fuel, eating out, food delivery, and even garments are swiftly heading north.

A plate of idli-vada and coffee at a restaurant has shot up to Rs 150, post lockdown. Many restaurants are hoping to make up for losses with hiked prices, while a few want to keep their loyal customer base.

Ordering food online and takeaway is also costly, as packaging prices are up, but hoteliers say they have no option. Food delivery apps have hiked charges and stopped subscriptions, only making the hole in the pocket bigger.

Veerendra Kamat, secretary, Bruhat Bengaluru Hoteliers' Association, said: "While some restaurants have not hiked rates to avoid burdening the customer, others have to make ends meet. Restaurants and hotels are running at 30%-40% capacity and each day is a challenge."

Travelling has also become costly as fuel is dearer. "Fuel prices have been hiked for 17 consecutive days, creating a pandemic of sorts for commuters and public transport operators alike," said Prasanna Patwardhan, president, BOCI.

Essentials and daily items have gone up by 20%. FKCCI past president J R Bangera said the cost of all items will continue to surge till mid-July as the government needs to fill up its coffers. Citizens, already feeling the pinch, have started shopping cautiously.

Regular visitors to malls are no longer spending, and the worst-hit are small-time traders, who have no savings left. Simply put, there is little money to go around.

Manjunath S, president of Adarsha Auto Union, said: "We are not getting enough passengers. Earlier, we earned around Rs 700 per day, but now, it's Rs 300-400." Commuters say that autorickshaw drivers now request an additional Rs 20.

Appanna PP, secretary, All India Central Council of Trade Unions (AICCTU-Karnataka) said, "All essential goods are costly. Cooking oil price has increased from Rs 95 a litre to Rs 150." The Union has decided to protest on May 26 in front of the Labour department. "Since prices are going up, the state government must increase minimum wages for workers," he added.

The cost of garments has shot up, with rise in raw material cost and shortage of workers. Prakash B, secretary, Garments Association, said malls and stores are clearing old stock at old rates, but the spike is bound to show in the coming days.

However, prices of fruits and vegetables have not risen. APMC director Kari Gowda said that wholesale retailers have not hiked prices, though Hopcoms MD Prasad B N said rates are expected to go up as KR Market is closed and Huskur Market is far from the city.

Real estate remains stable, and builders have decided to hold prices till September, though cement and sand cost more.

Demolition work for Metro Phase II under way on Tannery Road

Demolition for Metro Phase II resumes

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

DEMOLITION work for Metro stations of the Underground Corridor of Metro's Phase-II, which could not be carried out for over two months due to the lockdown, is now under way in three of the four stations scheduled.

Over 100 buildings have been demolished to build the Arabic College, Tannery Road and Nagawara Metro stations, said an official. This also includes a 35-flat residential complex at 'Akshay Residency' at the junction of Outer Ring Road and Nagawara. This is the first time such a huge apartment has been demolished for any Metro project.

M S Channappa Goudar, General Manager, Land Acquisitions, Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL), said, "We could not ask people to relocate during the lockdown. Hence, we waited till it was relaxed and till Eid was over." A total of 2,662 properties have been acquired for the Nagawara-Gottigere line (Reach-6) and a compensation of Rs 2,016 crore has been paid to the land losers, he said.

Another official said the demolition is almost completed at Tannery Road. "Barring three properties where tenants or owners have gone outside the state, we have demolished everything. It includes many tannery units which had been here for decades," he said.

Work is on at a brisk pace for the Nagawara Metro station. "The demolition of a massive apartment is almost completed here and demolition of other properties is on at a brisk pace," he added. The process of acquiring properties is underway at Arabic College, the official said.

The only problem is acquiring land for Venkateshwara station. "We had acquired two acres of land from the BDA and paid them compensation amount too. However, another person claiming ownership of the property has taken BDA to the court and this has prevented us from going ahead with the demolition," he added.

KIA closes North runway, opens South

ENS @Bengaluru

THREE months after it was originally scheduled, the new South Parallel Runway at Kempegowda International Airport (KIA) became fully operational from Monday afternoon. This follows the closure of the North runway completely to carry out rehabilitation and upgradation works, the first time since it began operations in 2008.

Speaking to TNIE, Chief executive Officer of airport operator, Bangalore International Airport Limited Hari Marar said, "A portion of the runway was closed eight years ago to carry out work along one portion. We are closing it completely for the first time." Asked if the new runway had got CAT-III compliance which would allow it to operate under zero visibility conditions, Marar said that would take time. "It will happen by the end of this year," he said.

Marar said an average of 90 arrivals and departures take place here presently, he added. However, a source said the figure was likely to be around 140 to 150 Air Traffic Movements (arrivals plus departures).

An official release said the rehabilitation works on the North Runway will be completed by December 2020. "The rehabilitation includes strengthening and resurfacing of the runway as well as installation of Runway center line lights. Once complete, these enhancements offer flexibility to operate both runways in low visibility and adverse weather conditions." An official spokesperson said, "We currently have eight taxiways. Two more will be added as part of upgradation works."

It's Olympic Day run with social distancing

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN the past, when the Karnataka Olympic Association celebrated International Olympic Day in the State, it was seen as a big event. But the prevailing situation of Covid-19 forced the body to keep it as low profile as possible at the Sree Kanteerava Indoor Stadium on Tuesday. Olympic Day is celebrated across the world on June 23 to commemorate the foundation of the International Olympic Committee.

"Hosting this event is not a new thing for us as we have been doing this for quite some time now," said KOA secretary-general T Ananthraju.

Normally, one would see schoolchildren, college students and sportspersons among others being a part of the 5km run. On Tuesday, some well-known personalities, including India women's basketball team coach Zoran Visic, who is based in the city, Archana Kamath, table tennis player, and other former Olympians took part in the run.

Around 50-60 people, who were made to stand a safe distance from one another, ran — rather jogged — just outside the indoor stadium for a single lap. Sports minister C T Ravi, who flagged off the event, went around the stadium to have a look at the facilities.

"Keeping in mind the Covid-19 situation, we decided to keep it low profile as big gatherings are not allowed. And it is important for all of us to follow these things. So, we also invited Olympians, some sportspersons to maintain the number. Usually, people attend it in huge numbers, say around 4,000, but it was different this time. I hope that the things will be better next year and we can have more people," KOA president K Govindaraj told this newspaper.

All those who participated in the run were given a certificate and some of them happily posed for the photographs alongside other runners.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

24th June : Pluto is the planet of the day. We often think of it as the farthest known planet, but now we're not so sure. Most astronomers don't even call it a planet anymore, but a 'planetoid'. It seems to be one of about sixty known objects which may be left over from the phase when our solar system was forming, about four billion years ago.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)

There's a slight relaxation in the planetary situation which indicates that you can pay less attention to family pressures. You're also entering a high-stakes financial cycle, so calculate the odds very carefully before taking chances. Remember - a good gambler never loses.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)

You may well feel as if people at home are too clever by half. What relatives will fail to realise is that they are confusing their feelings with their thoughts. You may give them more space to work out their own desires, and even provide some practical back-up.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)

The best way to handle your feelings is to talk about them. Family members could be surprisingly responsive, and you'll clear up some of your own uncertainties in the process. Financial concerns may be given a rest, perhaps because there are fresh figures to come in.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)

Your emotional security is an important issue, and you should be aware that financial worries can be a substitute for coping with deeper concerns. Bear in mind that family decisions are now in the pipeline, and that you really can't finalise your plans until partners know what they're doing.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)

The Moon is now due to step up its emotional presence, which will account for an increase in the romantic temperature. There is nothing to be gained from keeping your feelings to yourself, but you must be clear about your motives - because, if you're not, then you can't expect anyone else to understand you, either!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)

You can afford to be secretive, especially as far as family plans or domestic matters are concerned. Nobody has a right to probe into your affairs, and you must choose the time and place to tell others how you feel. Of course, once you've decided what you want to say, you have to find the right words.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)

Lift your social horizons and be prepared to make friends with new people. Even at work, your personal skills will come in useful, especially if you can get to other people on your side, making valuable allies for the future. There's a great deal to be said for listening to wiser, more experienced people, by the way.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)

You should now be prepared to take responsibility for others, although it won't be easy. It's better to see yourself as serving humanity. In love, it's important to be as generous with others as possible. If you count the cost now, then they'll remember it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)

Lunar alignments today are almost ideal for classic activities, like getting together with people who understand you, body and soul. Everything tends to emphasise your optimism and desire to explore life's highways and byways. Once you've worked out the odds, you may even put your innate caution to one side.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)

This is certainly a moment to look at business options. If you're in the housing market, or otherwise planning large domestic purchases, you will have doubts, perhaps very useful ones. Press ahead with caution, guarding your rear and bearing in mind that there may be surprises around the next corner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)

If you have been taking people for granted, you are about to be woken up with a jolt. You will discover, as so many others have before you, that complacency is a dangerous condition! Keep your wits about you and you'll sail through smoothly.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)

Your self-sacrificing instincts will be stirred today, so you will have to draw a line between performing favours and being exploited. Stay busy and you'll discover that work can be emotionally fulfilling. Just make sure that your efforts don't go unnoticed.

Under Covid cloud, monsoon session likely to be put off

State will take a call after Parliament decision; majority not in favour, term it risky

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

THE rising number of Covid-19 cases could force the Karnataka government to postpone the legislature session to a later date, as permitted by law.

Speaker Vishweshwara Hegde Kageri told TNIE that it is wait-and-watch for now. "We will see what decision Parliament takes, and whether other states conduct assembly sessions. In Karnataka, the government is yet to take a call on holding the session which will depend on the situation," he said.

State Secretariat sources said holding a session in the current environment was not advisable because despite implementing health measures, the virus is spreading, as the staff and followers of MLAs, MLCs and ministers visit Vidhana Soudha. "We can take health measures, but cannot avoid physical closeness. It's like a bomb ticking," an official said.

Law Minister J C Madhuswamy pointed to Article 174(1) of the Constitution, which mandates that there should not be a gap of more than six months between sessions. "The Governor shall from time to time summon the House, or each House of Legislature of the State to meet at such time and place as it thinks fit, but six months shall not intervene between its last sitting in one session and the date appointed for its first sitting in the next session," the Article reads.

Both Houses last met in March, during the Budget session, which had to be cut short due to the pandemic. The government has time till September for the next session, he said.

> Many issues need to be discussed, questions answered and bills passed. It cannot be done through gadgets. The very purpose of a session will be destroyed
>
> D H Shankaramurthy, BJP leader

"If the situation still looks alarming in September, we will hold a session for a day or two, and adjourn so that we get six months' time to hold the next session," he said.

Several senior elected representatives are of the opinion that holding the monsoon session is not desirable. Former Legislative Council chairman and senior BJP leader D H Shankaramurthy said the monsoon session is usually called in the month of June. Although politicians cutting across party lines were behaving responsibly, he was not in favour of holding the session.

Former Speaker and senior Congress leader K R Ramesh Kumar, too, said it was not advisable for the houses to meet when the situation was worsening.

Speed up KC Valley project, CM tells officials

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

CHIEF Minister B S Yediyurappa on Tuesday directed officials to expedite work on the Koramangala Chellaghatta (KC) Valley project to release treated water from Bengaluru to tanks in drought-prone Kolar district.

Under the KC Valley project, 400 MLD treated water has to be released to 126 tanks in Kolar, but now only 284 MLD treated water is being released from Bengaluru. During a meeting with a delegation of elected representatives from Kolar district, the CM directed the officials to ensure that rainwater that is wasted in Bengaluru is made available for treatment.

Former Speaker and Congress MLA K R Ramesh Kumar, who was part of the delegation, said, "We were informed by the officials that they will be able to complete the project by December." Now, 59 tanks and 40 check-dams are full with 286 MLD and by December it will go up to 126. In the second phase, they plan to cover another 257 tanks and that will cover the entire district.

The CM assured that work on the Yettinahole project would be expedited by removing hurdles in land acquisition. In Tumakuru division, the government has to acquire 5,000 acres of land in Koratagere and Doddaballapura taluks to impound 5.5 tmcft water.

Water resources minister Ramesh Jarkiholi, Minor irrigation minister J C Madhuswamy, Excise and Kolar district in charge minister K Nagesh and Lok Sabha member S Muniswamy were among those who attended the meeting.

HC to state: Act against Covid norm violators

ENS @Bengaluru

THE state government must ensure strict action against everyone under the Disaster Management Act for violation of regulations issued to prevent Covid-19 spread especially against political figures and elected representatives.

If no action is taken against political figures, it would send a wrong signal to society, said the High Court on Tuesday.

A division bench of Chief Justice Abhay Shreeniwas Oka and Justice Nataraj Rangaswamy passed the order after hearing a public interest litigation filed by the city-based Letzkit Foundation for non-implementation of regulations for enforcing the order passed by the Ministry of Home Affairs on May 30.

The bench noted that some sections of the society including the political leaders have ignored these regulations.

Lock down again or go the Brazil way, warns HDK

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

FORMER chief minister and JDS legislative party chief HD Kumaraswamy on Tuesday lashed out at the State government for its allegedly ineffective sealing down strategies to contain Covid-19.

In a series of tweets, Kumaraswamy insisted that CM BS Yediyurappa should order a complete lockdown, at least in Bengaluru, for the next 20 days to save lives and warned that the State will head the Brazil way if lockdown is not implemented. The state government on Monday decided to seal adjoining roads from where cases emanate. Kumaraswamy called this strategy futile.

"Today India is among the countries with the highest number of cases and the problem must be seen in conjunction with our high density of population compared to other countries. A rapid increase is observed in the days following the lifting of the lockdown. The question is, do we passively wait as the country is all set to over take Brazil?" Kumaraswamy tweeted on Tuesday morning. He appealed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, saying that selective seal-down in clusters had not served any purpose.

"I urge the PM to notice that selective seal-down in containment zones...I urge the CM to announce lockdown for 20 days, especially for Bengaluru. I also urge him to grant a compensation of at least Rs ₹5,000 to all daily wage workers...," (sic) the former chief minister said.

BSY against loss of revenue

"LET us first study the impact of sealing adjoining roads. Then we will see if wards have to be sealed, or constituencies or the entire city," Ashoka said.

CMO sources suggested that the CM is not keen on stalling economic activities, denting revenues of the state. "Only in the last three weeks, the state is seeing a slight improvement in revenues and we do not want to disrupt it. Moreover, the numbers are not as alarming. If the number of cases is increasing, so are the number of people recovering. We expect the numbers to slide, starting next week," the source said.

The CM is pushing for a containment strategy without affecting revenue flows. Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar's family members testing positive is said to have spooked some ministers and officials.

CONTAINMENT ZONES IN B'LURU RISE TO 501 ACROSS 46 WARDS

Citizens need to take all precautions as Covid-19 is spreading fast, says BBMP Commissioner

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

BENGALURU had 501 containment zones across the city on Tuesday and 46 wards had many such zones within their jurisdiction. This comes nearly a week after the BBMP deciding not to make the list public.

"The increase in containment zones is an alert that a watch needs to be kept on these wards," an official said.

Most cases are from Mangammanapalya, Kengeri, Singansadra, Hongasandra, Siddapura, Visvesapuram, Azad Nagar, Chamarajpet, KR Market, Chalavadipalya, Padarayanpura, Rayapuram, Dharmarayaswamy Temple, Bapuji Nagar and Sampangirama Nagar. The other wards where some cases have been reported are Bharathi Nagar, Vasanth Nagar, Gandhi Nagar, Subhash Nagar, Okalipuram, Agrahara Dasarahalli, Shanatala Nagar, Sudhama Nagar, Cottonpet, Binnypet, Hosahalli, Jnana Bharathi Nagar, Nayandahalli, Attiguppe, Hampi Nagar, Hombegowda Nagar, Lakkasandra, Bellandur, Koramanagala, Basavanagudi, Jayanagar, Srinagar, Gali Anjaneya Temple, Deepanjali Nagar, Rajarajeshwari Nagar, Hosakerehalli, Girinagar, Katriguppe, Vidyapeeta, Ganesh Mandir, Pattabhiram Nagar, Byrasandra, Madiwala, HSR Layout, Bommanahalli, BTM Layout, Kumaraswamy Layout, Padmanabhanagar, Yelachenahalli, Chikkalsandra, Billekahalli, Uttarahalli, Arakere, Gottigere, Konanakunte, Anjanapura and Hemmigepura.

BBMP Commissioner B H Anil Kumar said that containment zones are increasing as cases are going up in the city. It is important for citizens to cooperate and follow all norms, he added.

Meanwhile, the state government has issued instructions to set up fever clinics at all district-level hospitals and taluk-level hospitals, which can collect swab samples from SAR and ILI patients. Private healthcare facilities too should be designated as fever clinics. The entire community health centres, and 50 per cent of primary and urban health centres to be converted exclusively into fever centres. All fever clinics should also be swab collection centres and the remaining PHCs which are not fever clinics should upload the details of ILI/SARI cases on the fever clinic portal. Fever clinics must report cases referred from Apthamitra and follow up on people who have visited the clinics but not referred for swab testing or collection.

Asymptomatic patients can be discharged after 10 days

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE state government has come up with revised discharge policy guidelines, wherein asymptomatic patients can be discharged 10 days after testing positive for Covid-19.

Here is an example: A patient whose swab was taken on June 1, and tested positive, is to be discharged after 10 days, on June 11. There is no need for RT-PCR, CB-NAAT, True-NAT test either before discharge. However, it is important that during this period, the patient shall remain free of symptoms.

At the time of discharge, the patient is advised home quarantine for 14 days. The criteria that needs to be met for discharge are no symptoms — no fever, oxygen saturation above 90% and respiratory rate less that 24 per minute.

For mild and moderate cases, patients shall be discharged 10 days after the onset of symptoms, if the criteria is met -- no fever, no symptoms for three consecutive days before discharge, resolution of breathlessness and clinical signs, repeat inflammatory markers and saturation above 95% for four consecutive days. There is no need for a test to be done before discharge. The patients should remain in home quarantine for 14 days.

In the case of severely compromised immunity, HIV patients, transplant recipients, malignancy, patients shall be discharged only after complete clinical recovery, and one test should be done three days after complete clinical recovery. The patient is to be discharged if report comes negative. In case the swab test comes positive, it shall be repeated after 72 hours.

The patient is advised 14 days of home quarantine.

COVID WATCH

Sudhakar's wife, daughter test +ve

Bengaluru: Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar tweeted that he and his two sons have tested negative for Covid-19, but his wife and daughter have tested positive. In a tweet on Tuesnday morning, the minister wrote, "Unfortunately, my wife and daughter have tested positive for Covid-19 and are undergoing treatment. My two sons and myself have tested negative." On Monday, his 82-year-old father Keshava Reddy tested positive. ENS

Ministers check Covid ward hygiene

Bengaluru: Health Minister B Sriramulu and Medical Education Minister Dr K Sudhakar took stock of the situation in the Covid wards at Victoria Hospital and Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Disease, after several patients complained about poor quality food and unhygienic condition of toilets and rooms. Sriramulu said, "I have directed officials to make necessary arrangements." Sudhakar also held a video conference with the management of the hospitals. ENS

Bengaluru : After training more than two lakh healthcare workers, the Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) has created a database of healthcare professionals in the state. This will streamline the process of deploying them, said RGUHS V-C Sachiddanand. The institute is also holding a mortality audit, he said. An amount of Rs 2 cr has been earmarked for Covid-19 research. ENS

SWR ignores quarantine norms, puts lives of 500 at risk after employee dies

MAHESH M GOUDAR @Bagalkot

THE lives of at least 500 people are at risk because of the negligence of South Western Railways and lack of clarity in norms, as a 57-year-old railway employee, who died recently, tested positive.

The employee was working as a ticket collector and had gone to Miraj in Maharashtra on duty last week. After returning from the hotspot state, the authorities allowed him to travel to his hometown via Hubballi, ignoring institutional quarantine norms.

District Health Officer Dr Ananth Desai said, "We did not have any information about his return from Maharashtra. SWR officials apprised us only after his death. As he complained of body ache, his family members took him to a local doctor on Saturday. On Monday, he again complained of uneasiness and fever, but died on the way to hospital."

He said, "Complying with the protocol, his throat swab was collected and tested at CBNAT lab in the district, which revealed that he was Covid-positive. The same samples have also been sent to labs in Bengaluru for revalidation and the results are expected on Wednesday."

Ironically, over 200 people attended the final rites on Monday and were unaware of the positive report. Health authorities are tracing each one of them, besides insisting them to undergo home quarantine till the results are out. Meanwhile, the entire village with a population of over 1,500 people was completely sealed down in the early hours on Tuesday.

E Vijaya, Chief Public Relations Officer, SWR, said, "As per government norms, officials and political leaders, who travel across the country, have been exempted from quarantine. That is why we did not insist on quarantine".

However, a Department of Health and Family Welfare official said, "The exemption is applicable only for ministers and officers, but not for Group B, C and D employees." With the death of this 57-year-old man, the toll in Bagalkor district has gone up to two.

Pvt hospitals to seek revision of treatment rates

THE government has stated that 50 per cent of beds in private hospitals shall be reserved for treatment of Covid-19 patients referred by public health authorities. The remaining can be used to admit Covid-19 patients privately. An additional 10 per cent extra will be charged for twin sharing, 25 per cent for single room while there will be no ceiling for suites.

In case of unforseen complications, surgeries, co-morbid conditions, pregnancy, additional packages under Ayushman Bharat-Arogya Karnataka will apply. All Covid-19 patients, including those belonging to BPL, APL families, migrant workers, inter-state returnees not possessing PDS card shall be considered eligible in view of the unprecedented pandemic. There should be no compromise in the quality of services, the government ordered.

However, private hospitals, both big and small, are unhappy with the rates and planning to appeal to the government to revise the rates.

Dr Nagendra Swamy, principal co-ordinator of the Federation of Healthcare Associations, Karnataka (FHAK) said, "We had given subsidised rates for Ayushman Bharat patients and they have accepted it. We do not mind that, as it is our contribution to society. However, there needs to be a better rate for cash patients. Unfortunately, the price has been reduced drastically, especially for ICU, and this will impact us. We will appeal for change in both categories for ICU charges."

Dr Govindaiah Yatheesh, secretary of Private Hospital and Nursing Homes Association (PHANA), said, "We are really not happy with the prices. We are going to ask the government to revise the rates. We are not looking at profits, but we need to have proper rates. There are high-end antibiotics and medications and these rates will not be enough. But we won't stop treatment."

Public health experts too are unhappy with the capped rates, but for different reasons. Dr Sylvia Karpagam, public health doctor and researcher, said, "It is well known that these packages are not comprehensive and will require out-of-pocket payment for co-morbidities and complications. For example, if a diabetic patient develops an injection abscess, it will not be covered by the 'package'. This is deliberately left vague. The package incentivises private hospitals to put people into ICUs and on ventilators only because the reimbursement is higher. It is not uncommon for patients to be 'over-treated' in such situations."

States like Maharashtra and Gujarat have already negotiated rates for various slabs of treatment with private hospitals.

PLAYING IT SAFE

Player tests positive, KGA temporarily shut

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

A few weeks after golfing activities resumed at the Karnataka Golf Association, it was shuttered again on Tuesday, as one of its members, who had played golf on June 13, tested Covid-positive.

The KGA was alerted about the positive case on Tuesday afternoon, and the authorities acted quickly and closed the facility, including its clubhouse. "The KGA had to be closed to sanitise the entire area. Surrounding areas of KGA too should be searched. It is difficult to predict as to when the golf course could be open again," said a KGA source.

Though KGA might not be buzzing with activity as compared to pre-Covid times, authorities have informed all the people who might have come in contact with the infected person to report to the Covid war room. Those who played alongside him and the caddie have also been apprised of the situation. It is learnt that some of them have already gone for tests, while more could follow soon.

Golf was one of the first sports to begin in Karnataka last month and a lot of players were taking part."

"I would not like to call it a blow. We have to get used to such situations. The only thing we can do is to take all precautions and stay safe and hope things improve," the source added.

Covid cases among cops collateral damage: Sood

102 active positive cases in police force, thousands quarantined

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE number of Covid-19 cases in the State police is alarmingly on the rise, leading to serious concern in the police top brass about the health and morale of their personnel and their families. "This is collateral damage that the police have to pay for their work and the tasks assigned to them. We simply cannot suspend normal police duties," said Director General and Inspector General of Police Praveen Sood.

As on Tuesday, there were 102 active positive cases in the State police, out of which 66 are from Bengaluru City police. "A couple of thousands of police personnel have been quarantined to break the chain. Most of them are asymptomatic. We have scaled up the screening of our personnel in police colonies and testing of primary and secondary contacts as measures of extreme precaution to contain the spread of the virus," he said.

Compared to other districts, the higher number of cases is in Bengaluru City police since the last fortnight. "In the other districts, cases were being reported in the last three months and we have been able to break the chain. Out of 95 cases from other districts, 36 are active. In Bengaluru, out of 77 cases, 66 are active. Hopefully, we will be able to break the chain in the city police also. We have unfortunately lost four men to Covid-19," said Sood.

On increasing testing, he said that "indiscriminate testing will only burden the State health infrastructure at the cost of general public. Our priority is to test those with ILI, SARI symptoms and with comorbidities. We have asked our personnel of 55 years of age and above to work from home as a precaution. So far, we have tested 20,000 personnel of one lakh police force," he added.

Eight cops in the Central Crime Branch (CCB) tested positive after an accused, who was brought to the office had tested positive. "We suspended work at the Kalasipalyam police station for 10-14 days after cases increased there," he added. The BBMP has sealed Kalasipalya along with other containment zones in the City.

One of the areas of concern for the police is while making an arrest. Guidelines say the accused must be tested for Covid-19 after arrest. But till the time test reports come, they are locked up at the police station. "They have to be tested for Covid-19 before being sent to judicial custody," said Sood.

He said officers are in regular touch with personnel deployed on frontline duties to keep up their morale. "There are pressures and we all know that sooner or later we will get the virus. The good news is that it is not fatal, and we will recover from it if we have strong immunity," he added.

8 BENGALURU POLICE STATIONS SEALED

Eight police stations in Bengaluru have been sealed off, with the latest being Marathalli police station where 4 staff tested positive, Kalasipalya (24 positive), and Ulsoor (1 positive). Other police stations sealed off inlcude Chamrajpet, Tilak Nagar, Kengeri, Cubbon Park, and VV Puram

IAS officer attended office, returned home early

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

SENIOR IAS officer B M Vijayashankar, who was Deputy Commissioner (DC), Bengaluru North, was arrested last year by the Special Investigation Team (SIT) over corruption charges in the Rs 4,000 crore IMA ponzi scheme. The case was later transferred to the CBI which registered an FIR against Vijayashankar, L C Nagaraj, former sub-division officer, Bengaluru North, and Manjunath, former village accountant, Bengaluru North, under sections of the Prevention of Corruption (PC) Act.

"The family is in shock. We are yet to inquire with them about the reason for the suicide. However, a preliminary probe revealed he was depressed after he was arrested in the IMA case and the CBI had also grilled him and named him in the FIR. This may have led him to end his life, but we are investigating the case from all angles," an official said.

After being placed under suspension, Vijayashankar was posted as Additional Mission Director-1 of Sakala department about 20 days ago.

Police said he had gone to the office on Tuesday and also held meetings. "He returned home early in the afternoon. Only he and his wife were at home. He last spoke to his wife at around 6.30 pm, after which he went to his room and locked himself up. As there was no response from him for an hour, his wife, with the help of neighbours, broke open the door to find him hanging," police added.

City Police Commissioner Bhaskar Rao, rushed to the spot following the incident. A case of unnatural death has been registered at Tilak Nagar police station.

Earlier this month, the CBI had sought permission from the State government to prosecute Vijayashankar, Nagaraj and Manjunath. "The government is yet to grant sanction," said an official source.

Vijayashankar and Nagaraj, appointed competent authority under Karnataka Protection of Interest of Depositors in Financial Establishments (KPID) Act, were accused of covering up the IMA fraud after receiving illegal gratification, the source added.

Kolkata man 'confessed' to killing wife in note

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A day after a man allegedly killed his mother-in-law and then himself in Kolkata, Bengaluru police suspect that he may have killed his wife in Bengaluru around two days before her body was found.

Amit Agarwal (42), allegedly shot and killed his mother-in-law Lalita Dhandhania (65) at her house in Phoolbagan in Kolkata on Monday. He attempted to shoot his father-in-law Shubhas Dhandhania as well, but the latter managed to escape and alert the police. Kolkata police then found Amit dead in the house and the gun on the floor. Subhas later told the Kolkata police that Amit came to their house at around 5.30pm on Monday and started a quarrel.

Bengaluru police found the body of Amit's wife Shilpi Agarwal (35) at her house in Mahadevapura in a decomposed state on Monday, indicating that she may have been killed around 48 hours before.

"Amit left two notes, one at Shilpi's flat in Mahadevapura and another was found by Kolkata police near his body. In both letters, Amit confessed to killing his wife over marital discord. They were separated for the past two years and had applied for divorce. We are waiting for her family to arrive to the city for further procedures," a Bengaluru police officer said.

Initial reports suggested Amit was a businessman. However, as more details emerged on Tuesday, police said both he and Shilpi were chartered accountants and have a 10-year-old son. While Shilpi and their son lived in an apartment in Mahadevapura, Amit was said to be living in Uttarpara in Kolkata. Amit took their son to Kolkata on Monday, and dropped him off at his brother's house before going to his in-laws' house.

Cop ends life after testing positive

Bengaluru: A 50-year-old police head constable of the Karnataka State Reserve Police (KSRP) allegedly committed suicide after he tested positive on Monday. He hanged himself around 10.30pm when he was alone in a KSRP mini-bus, used to carry infected police staff, while being taken to CV Raman Hospital in Indiranagar. He spoke to the driver of the bus for a while. The driver found him dead when he reached the hospital. The constable panicked after his result came back positive around 8pm. He was counselled by medical officers when he was referred to the hospital. Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa took to Twitter to convey his condolences. ENS

Malavika Hegde-Wife, Sri Amarthya Hegde - son and Sri Ishanya Hegde - son) who was the erstwhile guarantor to 32 borrowers who had availed the loan facilities and M/s Coffee Day Global Ltd, who have issued a letter of comfort of repayment of these loans, by filing Original Applications before Debts Recovery Tribunal-II for total sum of Rs.165,34,69,665.00 in 32 Original Applications in O.A. No.1251, 1252, 1277, 1278, 1328, 1329, 1330, 1331,1334, 1335, 1336, 1337, 1338, 1339, 1340, 1341, 1441, 1442, 1443, 1444, 1445, 1447, 1448, 1449, 1449, 1450, 1451, 1452, 1453, 1454, 1455 and 1456 of 2019.

2. Further, in all the above 32 O.A.s, the Hon'ble DRT has granted an ex-parte Interim Order of attachment of the Schedule Properties mentioned thereon (which are specifically mentioned below) and the DRT has also restrained the legal heirs of Late V.G. Siddhartha from "transferring, alienating or otherwise dealing with, or disposing of movable and immovable properties including the investments made in shares, debentures, mutual funds, bank accounts, fixed deposits or any other investments/properties, which have been succeeded from the deceased Guarantor Sri. V.G. Siddhartha, without the prior permission of this Tribunal, during the pendency of the present O.A".

3. Our client has already issued the Legal Notices to the borrowers, legal heirs of Late V.G. Siddhartha, to concerned Sub-Registrars and also to the Inspector General of Registration and also to the Registrar of Companies, Regional Director (southern region) Ministry of Corporate Affairs by conveying the passing of Interim Orders and cautioned the Government Officials not to allow to alienate the Schedule Properties to any prospective buyers, which would amount to Contempt of Court Orders.

4. Our client has learnt from the media report/reliable sources, that the Defendant No. 3 (Café Coffee Day) has initiated sale proceedings of its Subsidiary companies in violation of the Interim Orders passed by the DRT. Further, it is learned that M/s Tanglin Developments Ltd. being a 99.80% subsidiary of the Café Coffee Day will be taken over/ merged/ amalgamated with Blackstone Group of Companies. M/s Tanglin Developments Ltd. also owns the immovable properties mentioned in the Item No. 5 in the Schedule mentioned below.

Wherefore, by way of this paper publication, we hereby bring to the notice/ caution the general public, the companies concerned, all subsidiary companies of Café Coffee Day and the Directors of such subsidiary companies (mentioned in Item No. 3 in the Schedule Property) and any other companies which are interested in taking over/ merging/ purchase of share/ amalgamation/ transferring any of the subsidiary companies including its immovable properties, that there are Interim Orders passed by the DRT-II in above said 32 O.A.s in respect of the Schedule Properties, that any act, deal, action done contrary to the passing of Interim Order shall be treated as contempt of court order and my client shall reserve all liberty to initiate appropriate contempt proceedings against the persons involved in such act. Further it is cautioned that any action done by anyone in violation of the above said Interim Orders shall be treated as null and void.

The chariots of the Trinity line up in front of Jagannath Temple during Rath Yatra in Puri on Tuesday | BISWANATH SWAIN

For first time, no sea of devotees at Rath Yatra

Prohibitory orders in entire district; 50 police platoons oversee event

RAJKUMAR MOHANTY @Puri

THIS Rath Yatra was like no other. The sea of humanity was missing as were the myriad hues of frenzied devotion and the feverish chants, music and dance, when the Holy Trinity came down from the 'Ratna Simhasan' to board the chariots for the annual sojourn.

For the first time in its history, the Bada Danda (Grand Road) looked like a road on which the deities made their way to their aunt's place and did not lose its existence under the shroud of the teeming multitudes, bathed in the faith of the Supreme Divine.

These are extraordinary times and the deities Lord Jagannath, Lord Balabhadra and Devi Subhadra too submitted to the extraordinary situation as their chariots rolled out for the first time without any participation of devotees. Yet, for the millions of devotees in Odisha and across the world, the glimpse of the Trinity on their TV sets, mobile phones and computers during the live telecast and streaming of the entire rituals and procession, was enough succour and solace.

"Not a leaf moves without His will," Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik stated while offering his prayers from his office, when the wheels of Nandighosa (the chariot of Lord Jagannath) started moving. Such emotion and fervour was palpable across the state though people remained home, even in Puri town, putting to rest all fears and apprehensions voiced by the Supreme Court and the State Government earlier.

Organised amid strict Covid-19 restrictions after the Supreme Court allowed conduct of the Rath Yatra, the chariots—Nandighosa, Taladhwaja and Darpadalana—were pulled by servitors only with a strong police cordon encircling them. As per the court directive, only 500 servitors were engaged to pull one chariot weighing eight tonne. Only 10 servitors including the charioteer were allowed on each chariot.

As many as 50 platoons of police force were deployed for smooth conduct of the fest. No untoward incidents were reported. The entire Bada Danda was under Section 144 of the CrPC and a curfew-like situation prevailed in the pilgrim town.

RGUHS exam schedule subject to lockdown

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

RAJIV GANDHI University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) may revise the timetable undergraduate students' exam. However, this is subject to the government's revised lockdown norms which will come out by June 30. Speaking to media persons on Tuesday, RGUHS Vice-Chancellor Dr S Sacchidanand said the exams are scheduled to start from July 20. Postgraduate, dental and MPT students, who have completed their syllabus, will have their exams from July 14 as usual, added the V-C.

This comes as a respite to several students who went back to their hometowns and are expected to return to the city.

NEET PG coaching

To increase the number of Karnataka-based students in medical programmes, the institute has initiated the process for providing online training courses for undergraduate students on NEET PG, said the vice-chancellor.

Scholarship for students

To help economically backward students, the institute has started the 'Scholarship for Poor and Meritorious Students' from the academic year 2020-21 onwards, he said. They have received 208 applications for the scholarship so far of which just 40 will be shortlisted.

Upgrading govt colleges

RGUHS is looking to upgrade more than 17 government autonomous medical colleges affiliated to it by setting up molecular biology and simulation labs on their premises. Technical specifications for establishing such labs have been finalized in consultation with experts, said V-C Sacchidanand. Tenders will be floated soon.

University convocation on June 25 to be streamed live

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE 22ND annual convocation of Rajiv Gandhi University of Health Sciences (RGUHS) will be held on June 25 at the NIMHANS convention centre. The event will be streamed online as well.

Karnataka Governor Vajubhai Vala will confer the degrees to the students. Minister of Medical Education K Sudhakar will be present through video conference.

Former director of the Indian Institute of Science Professor Padmanabhan Balaram will be the chief guest. Altogether, 36,434 candidates will receive their degrees.

Of the total number of students, 7,421 graduated in general medicine, 3,159 in dentistry, 4,957 in AYUSH, 1,335 in homeopathy, 3,923 in pharmacy, 13,367 in nursing and 2,272 in physiotherapy and other allied health courses. Altogether, 99 women and 32 men won gold medals, thus outnumbering the men.

Addressing media persons about the convocation, Vice-Chancellor Dr S Sacchidanand said just the dignitaries, PhD students and gold medallists will be present in the hall.

In response to the PM's call to youths to come up with new ideas, RGUHS started a Covid-19 innovative challenge titled 'Ideathon'.

More than 1,000 students and faculty members of affiliated colleges registered for the challenge, said Dr Sacchidanand.

GOLDEN MOMENT FOR RISING STARS

DR RASHMITA RATHNAKAR (SIX GOLD MEDALS)

SDM College of Dental Sciences & Hospital, Dharwad

Rashmita knew she would pursue medicine when she was in Class 10, when she was impressed by gynaecologist Dr Meenakshi Bharath. She secured a seat in BDS, and gradually came to like it. There's nothing like hearing the words "There is magic in your hands", she says about excelling in her practice. A school and college topper, Rashmitha is a first-generation doctor born to Rathnakar Kunder, marketing head for Diageo, and homemaker Sudha Rathnakar.

DR CHINDU B S (FIVE GOLD MEDALS, ONE CASH PRIZE)

Sri Sri College of Ayurvedic Science & Research, Bengaluru

Chindu wanted to continue her grandparents' legacy of the Ayurvedic system of medicine, which skipped her parents' generation. Born in Vaikom, Kerala, to BSNL employee T Somakumar and engineer B S Beena, she is joining her sister in this discipline, to keep the tradition of Ayurvedic medicine alive in Kerala. Through this, she wants to make a difference to women's reproductive health.

DR ARPIT SHANTAGIRI (TWO GOLD MEDALS)

Bangalore Medical College & Research Institute, Bengaluru

Born into a family of doctors in Belagavi, Dr Hema Shantagiri, MD Pathology and Dr Pradeep Shantagiri, MD Medicine, this gold medallist in ophthalmology, joined the profession as he developed a keenness for it in his childhood. His focus on ophthalmology was strengthened by BMCRI's dedicated eye hospital —Minto —which provided enough infrastructure to focus on the discipline.

INDIAN EXPRESS IS NOT AN INDUSTRY. IT IS A MISSION.

— Ramnath Goenka

CANNOT GO BACK TO BUSINESS AS USUAL WITH CHINA

The agreement reached between India and China to disengage from all "friction areas" after marathon talks between senior Army commanders of both the sides needs to be welcomed. Although details of the disengagement are yet to be revealed, prima facie it can be interpreted as only a broad agreement for withdrawal from all the areas such as the Galwan Valley, Fingers 4 to 8 in the Pangong Tso area and Hot Springs. The finer modalities of the disengagement, it has been unofficially told to the media, will be worked out after commanders sit down again for a sector-wise discussion. It has been India's position that China transgressed into its territories in these areas. Whether the agreement also means restoring the status quo ante, in other words, the Chinese returning to positions where they came from before May 2020, is not yet known. But nonetheless, the agreement is something both sides can hope to build upon.

The Corps Commander-level talks this time were different from the previous one on June 6. Unlike the last time when both sides were silent on the outcome, on this occasion at least the Indian Army has issued a statement to reveal the agreement. The June 6 meeting yielded only some protocols, and this too was revealed after the bloody clash on June 15 as both sides accused each other of breaching the protocol, leading to the fight that left many dead.

While the immediate need following the June 22 agreement is to ensure that the disengagement takes place on the ground, India needs to do some hard and realistic thinking about its relationship with its northern neighbour. As former Indian foreign secretary Nirupama Rao told this newspaper, and as did many other experts, India's relationship with China needs to be redefined as it cannot be business as usual. Much of India's security and foreign policy is defined by our relationship with Pakistan, with whom India has had four wars. China has been no less belligerent towards India and there have been at least two major military confrontations and several localised conflicts. It's time India looks at China through a new prism.

VIRAL LOAD WEIGHS TN DISTRICTS DOWN

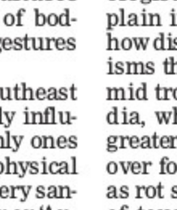
As the attention of health and district authorities has been focused on Chennai and the three adjoining districts of Kancheepuram, Thiruvallur and Chengapattu that have been locked down till June 30, there has been a silent spurt of cases in the southern district of Madurai and the western district of Coimbatore. The number of cases in Madurai touched 849, with 157 reported on Monday alone. The uneasy spike has prompted Madurai district authorities to follow the Chennai model of announcing an intense lockdown—for a week from June 24 to June 30. Health officials have been asked to organise fever clinics for early detection and carry out house-to-house surveys to identify potential Covid cases. Similarly, Coimbatore and the adjoining districts of Erode, Salem, Tirupur and Nilgiris, which had been boasting of slowly flattening the curve by not having reported cases for weeks, have now seen a spurt. Coimbatore alone has reported 100 new cases in the past week, its sharpest rise since March.

Most of these are returnees from Chennai and adjoining districts. After the June 1 easing of curbs, when one needed an e-pass with a QR code to cross over, there have been many cases of fake passes being shown at checkposts. But this racket amplified during the run-up to the sealing of borders around Chennai and the adjoining districts on June 19. Police officials had to scan the QR code for authentication, but many allowed vehicles through after simply checking whether they had a pass. Apart from this lapse is the absence of quarantine discipline needed after reaching a particular destination from a hotspot like Chennai. A case in point was a popular jewellery store in Coimbatore that ferried 30 staff from Chennai sans e-pass and did not even place them under quarantine. They had to report for work the moment they arrived. The revenue department sealed the store last week, but four of the staff had already tested positive.

The Madurai and Coimbatore examples are to be internalised by the state. Without diluting the focus on hotspots, the vigil has to be spread evenly now as the crossovers have resulted in the viral load being distributed across TN.

Indian culture and Southeast Asian cultures profoundly influenced by it are the only ones that even earlier stayed far away from physical touch and hugging

NAMASTE, THE MOST FAVOURED GREETING IN COVID TIMES



JAWHAR SIRCAR

Retired civil servant. Former Culture Secretary and ex-CEO, Prasar Bharati

AMIT BANDRE

It is only after the recent ravages of the coronavirus that much of the world suddenly realised the virtues of the Indian cultural trademark called 'namaste'. In the past, foreigners were often surprised or upset when they extended their hand to Indians for a friendly shake, only to be greeted by two palms of the hands joined together, fingers pointing upwards. This indicated rather decisively that touch was foreclosed. But then, the handshake is less physical when compared to the hug, often quite tight, that many cultures insist on. Kissing on the cheek and even on the lips are well accepted as greetings, even among the same gender. Rubbing noses is a must among cultures like those of the Inuits, known earlier as Eskimos, and among Maoris in faraway New Zealand. Thus, many cultures enjoin a close proximity of bodies or limbs as essential gestures of friendliness.

Indian culture and Southeast Asian cultures profoundly influenced by India are the only ones that stay far away from physical touch and hugging. The very sanitised namaste, namaskar or 'Anjali Mudra' becomes the wai in Thailand, the sembah in Indonesia and the sampeah in Cambodia. To understand why Indians are averse to physical contact with strangers and all outside their immediate circle of family and friends, we need to appreciate the overriding concept of purity and pollution in traditional Indian civilisation that impacted later religions on Indian soil, like Islam and Christianity, to a considerable extent. Hinduism, like other non-Abrahamic Indian religions, insists that the touch of the hand or fingers, especially while eating when saliva overflows in the mouth, contaminates all food except one's own. This had made little sense to outsiders in the past, but after Covid-19 ravaged the world, they came to realise the inherent danger of contracting deadly diseases through touch, saliva, sneeze and droplets that involuntarily spray out the mouth while speaking. Bacteriologists and virologists can explain in greater detail why and how disease-causing microorganisms thrive more in the hot, humid tropical environment of India, which may have called for greater personal safeguards. Leftover food was generally avoided as rot sets in rather fast. The act of touching other unknown humans or impure objects became taboo and traditional Indian culture was obsessed with precautions against touch-borne disease. We all know of how suspiciously many view water before drinking it. After all, one of the most fatal water-borne diseases in the world, cholera, is said to have travelled out of India. This explains perhaps why everyone here carries his or her own bottle of water or purchases a filtered sealed bottle, just to be sure. This rule was, of course, perverted by the pernicious caste system to prohibit the partaking of water among unequal castes, implying quite arbitrarily that the lower the caste, the less clean it was.

But is it our basic argument that personal hygiene in India was more advanced than others even a millennia or two ago, ahead of all others? Well, we make it clear that there is no intention of claiming yet another 'first' for ancient India as is quite fashionable now, because several of these self-congratulatory claims are not based on scientific empiricism or proven history. Besides, we cannot segregate this fetish for personal health from the nation's abysmally poor performance in public health and its age-old failure to ensure collective cleanliness in public places. Disease comes from both private and public hygiene, and Gandhiji focused much of his mission on this issue. After 67 years of his death, the government had to launch a major national programme to ensure more acceptable public cleanliness. There is, however, a noticeable Indian obsession with water, frequent washing and bathing, as our slippery bathrooms proclaim, but along with these come stinking urinals. Few bother about the odour as it belongs to the public space. A person's fixation is to get rid of impure water or solids from one's body. An orthodox Indian believes that a sneeze ejected so nauseatingly in public is more acceptable as the dirty stuff is out of the body, than if it were captured by a handkerchief, western style, and carried in one's pocket.

> While our sixth century Sushruta Samhita indicated that disease spread through touch, as did the eleventh century Ibn Sina's Kitab-al-Shifa, major Eastern physicians could not shake the Western world's unscientific belief in miasma ('bad air' or vapours) as the root of sickness and epidemics

While our sixth century Sushruta Samhita indicated that disease spread through touch, as did the eleventh century Ibn Sina's Kitab-al-Shifa, major Eastern physicians could not shake the Western world's unscientific belief in miasma ('bad air' or vapours) as the root of sickness and epidemics. Though all religions insisted that worshippers wash their hands, when a Hungarian physician named Semmelweis actually suggested in 1847 that doctors clean their hands before operating or treating patients, he was sent to a mental hospital where he died tragically. Around this time, John Snow demonstrated the connection between London's cholera epidemic and contaminated water. Over the next few decades, Western science gradually came to learn of the existence of 'germs' and 'bacteria' and then 'contact' became the villain of infection. It was only in the closing years of that century that pseudo-living microparticles defined as viruses were discovered.

While Indians are glad that Covid made many foreigners realise why the Indian namaste is a sensible thing, our country has more to offer. Some day, toilet paper guzzling societies may discover the sheer comfort of using water at the right place.

DIGITAL LESSONS FROM THE LOCKDOWN

PADMAJA RUPAREL

Co-founder, Indian Angel Network, and Founding Partner, IAN Fund

The last few months have changed many things. When the lockdown started in March, many of us thought this would be lifted in three weeks, but that was not to be. Once Unlock 1.0 was announced, many of us believed that life would be back to "normal"—but that has also not been the case. Today, while many of us are trying to live our Before Covid (BC) lives or as we say, "normal" lives, the reality is that we have all had to adapt in some way or the other. Our Post Covid (PC) lives are different: For some the change has been dramatic, for others not that dramatic. But a change has surely come in all our lives.

We lived in a world where work from home was the exception and now it is the norm; video calling was another tool of communication and now it is the backbone of our communications; not travelling was not an option and now travelling is an exception. We have had to adapt to dramatic changes and it's incredible how our innate ability has enabled us to do so. While, as we all hope, many of the BC norms will return, there are some adaptations of the PC era that will continue.

The most important is that "virtual" and "digital" will remain in our lives. Over the last few months, there has been an 87% rise in social media usage, video calls have seen a 17-20 times increase, working digitally has become the norm, and our daily lives including shopping, transacting, entertainment, education, etc., have all moved online. While this usage may see some decrease as the unlock progresses, these operating models will continue as the cost, convenience and speed are a huge advantage.

The move into the digital world has made it imperative that the balance between formal and casual, and serious and non-serious is well maintained. For instance, WhatsApp has become the accepted mode of business communication and is no longer just a "messenger", and video calls are the new meeting rooms. The digital persona is critical and the new medium for brand building. Therefore, it becomes imperative to focus on how one "behaves" online: the use of the right words, tone, correct spellings, impeccable grammar and punctuation. A quick WhatsApp/140-character message/one-minute video has never been more powerful. The norms of etiquette for calls/videos are important: muting one's mike when not speaking, allowing others to complete speaking, dressing appropriately for video calls, presenting on camera, tracking chats on video platforms, etc.

This is even more important in the start-up world. Founders, investors and ecosystem catalysts are all engaging constantly. They are in effect "selling" and therefore impressive communication is imperative. Immaculate communication is not just a matter of optics but is the tool for business building. If a founder is unable to communicate the potential and power of his company's proposition well, coherently and clearly, she will just not be able to attract customers, talent or investors. And this is not a matter of language: One can communicate in any language, but it needs to be crystal clear. It is not a matter of just getting the message across, but also impressing upon the recipient that the message is coming from someone who knows the subject. And even more important, it is not a matter of expertise, it is a matter of according respect: a message with errors conveys a "don't care" attitude and the recipient will also adopt a "don't care" attitude towards you. You start on the back foot from the word go.

> The digital persona is critical and the new medium for brand building. So it becomes imperative to focus on how one 'behaves' online: the use of the right words, tone, correct spellings, impeccable grammar and punctuation. This is even more important in the start-up world

Virtual pitches are here to stay and a good thing too. It does save time as entrepreneurs can pitch to investors quickly and investors can take quick discussions: delays due to physical meetings have surely come down. But this does have challenges: virtual does mean that communicating through body language is not possible. Therefore, the need to articulate well is even more critical as the audience still needs to be engaged. Reading off slides is a perfect recipe for disengagement. Hence, it will need some storytelling to convey passion, understanding and depth. Pausing at the right point and inviting questions allows for an engaged audience, which also helps gauge the listener's interest. Switching during the presentation from one presenter to another needs to be well synchronised. And all of this will need some dry runs.

Technology has placed in our hands both power and speed: the mobile, laptop, etc., have provided us different ways to engage and with the speed of lightning. This has really created an opportunity for us to create value and credibility for ourselves and others. We have often heard that the power of the pen is far greater than that of the sword: this is applicable even more today. Lives, businesses and relationships are today largely built on how we engage, network and communicate with each other.

Covid-19 has forced us to rethink and the lockdown has made us learn new life skills, communication skills being one of the most important ones. It's imperative that we don't forget these soon.

Boycotting China not easy

This is with reference to the opinion article Has China shot itself in the wallet? (Jun 23). It is not that easy to boycott products from China when they constitute a substantial percentage of our imports. Not only India, China has made a number of other nations dependent on it for various types of goods by its strategic export policies and humongous domestic capabilities built up over a period of time. To say goodbye to China, we need an elaborate plan.

Rahul's jibes juvenile, but ...

Rahul Gandhi's jibe at the prime minister over the Ladakh standoff dubbing him "Surender Modi" is too juvenile and unbecoming of a leader of a national political party. However, in view of the allegation of the Congress that satellite photos show that China has again captured Indian territory near Pangong Lake, the Centre has a duty to clarify to the nation whether Chinese forces are still occupying any territory on our side of the LAC.

Ambiguous statements

It is amusing to see that the BJP is raking up the past to counter the Congress instead of looking towards its own record of failures. The contradictory and ambiguous statements on the border dispute emanating from different arms of the government has necessitated clarifications. This has allowed China to exploit the situation.

Pak should change course

This is with reference to the opinion article Ladakh and the Pakistan connect (June 23). It is better for Pakistan to set its own house in order by taking a cue from its pre-1972 cousins. While Pakistan is sinking, a pragmatic Bangladesh has performed much better in many economic indicators.

This is with reference to the article Centre has no road map for self-reliance (June 22). Compassion to elderly

The article The silent evil of elder abuse in India (June 22) has clearly portrayed the hapless state of elders who undergo desertion and humiliation in this country. Of course there are laws to protect them. And our Indian culture and customs are still helpful. But society has to show more compassion to the elderly.

Countering Beijing

We should engage China in diplomatic relations and avoid war as far as possible (Recalibrating our thinking on strategic defence and diplomacy, June 23). The onslaught with medieval weaponry seems an indication that both countries want to avoid war. At present, India is the only country that is capable of resisting China. So, any appeasement on our part will lead to the world's surrender to Chinese hegemony.

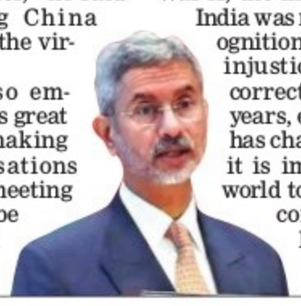
'Respecting international law must'

In a veiled dig at China, Jaishankar says at RIC meet that leading powers should act in an exemplary manner

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

IN what could be seen as a veiled dig at China amid the tensions along the Line of Actual Control, External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar on Tuesday said the world's leading voices should act in an exemplary manner by respecting international law and recognising interests of partners.

"The challenge today is not just one of concepts and norms, but equally of their practice. The leading voices of the world must be exemplars in every way. Respecting international law, recognising the legitimate interests of partners, supporting multilateralism and promoting common good are the only way of building a durable world order," he said without naming China while speaking at the virtual RIC summit.



Jaishankar also emphasised on India's great role in decision-making in world organisations like the UN. The meeting was originally to be held in March but was put off due to the coronavirus pandemic.

Saying that the world order of the 1940s was shaped by the victorious powers of the World War-II, the minister said that India was not given due recognition. "This historical injustice has stood uncorrected for the last 75 years, even as the world has changed. Therefore. it is important for the world to realise both the contribution that India made and the need to rectify the past," he said.

Calling for international relations to come to terms with contemporary reality, the minister said the UN initially had 53 members and today has 193. "Its decision-making cannot continue to be in denial of this fact. We, the RIC countries, have been active participants in shaping the global agenda. It is India's hope that we will also now converge on the value of reformed multilateralism," Jaishankar said.

Most Indians feel China bigger problem than Pak

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

As many as 68 per cent participants in a CVoter survey, done in partnership with a news channel, said China is a bigger problem for India than Pakistan while 72.6 per cent expressed trust in PM Narendra Modi's leadership on the issue of national security.

To a question if the government has taken concrete steps to give China a befitting reply, over 60 per cent of the respondents answered in the negative. However, 73.6 per cent also said they had more confidence on Modi-led BJP government than the opposition parties in dealing with the current crisis while 9.6 per cent said neither the government nor opposition was capable of handling the ongoing dispute with China.

As many as 61 per cent respondents said they had 'no faith' in Rahul Gandhi over the issue of national security; 14.4 per cent said they had 'some faith' in him. Over 68 per cent of those surveyed felt Indians will boycott Chinese products, but 31 per cent people will continue to buy goods made in China.

Fake news, says China

China on Tuesday dismissed reports suggesting 40 PLA casualties during the Galwan Valley clash as 'fake news'. Chinese foreign ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian said, "As for what you saw in the media, for example, some people alleged that casualties on the Chinese side amounted to 40, I can tell you for sure that this is fake news."

TRACKING COVID-19

Patanjali's 'Covid' drug under lens

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA AND VINEET UPADHYAY @New Delhi/Dehradun

THE Centre has sought details of the composition and the research related to the ayurvedic formulations launched by Patanjali as a cure for Covid 19- and also asked the firm owned by Yoga guru Baba Ramdev not to advertise the products till the issue is examined.

Ramdev, along with his aide Acharya Balkrishna, on Tuesday launched Coronil tablet and Swasari vati in Haridwar claiming they are not immunity boosters but effective cure for the disease.

> Patanjali has been asked to provide details of the name and composition of the medicines; site(s) where study was conducted...and stop advertising such claims
> AYUSH Ministry

The AYUSH Ministry in a statement said it does not yet know facts of the claim and details of the scientific study on which the product is based. Citing the provisions of Drugs and Magic Remedies Objectionable Advertisements Act, 1954 and rules that also cover ayurveda, the government asked Patanjali to stop publicising the medicine until the product details and research findings are verified.

The ministry also cited a gazette notification issued in April that laid down the requirements and the manner of the research studies on Covid-19 with Ayush interventions or medicines.

It has asked the company for the details such as composition of the medicine, sites where the study was conducted, protocol, sample size, institutional ethics committee clearance, Clinical Trial Registration of India registration and results data at the earliest.

The Centre has also asked the Uttarakhand licensing authority to provide copies of licence and product approval details.

Launching the products, Ramdev claimed that the medicine can cure Covid 19 within 3-7 days. "We are proud to present the first ever ayurvedic medicine for the viral infection the world is grappling with," he announced. "The medicine has been prepared by the combined efforts of Patanjali Research Centre and NIMS University, Jaipur."

The kit launched costs ₹545 and can be used for 30 days. Ramdev said the company conducted two trials for the medicine and the first studies took place in Delhi and Ahmedabad, among many other cities.

STAND-OFF

'India must not lower its guard'

Chinese troops and heavy military vehicles, including tanks, infantry vehicles and artillery, are parked t at the stand-off point between Finger 4 and Finger 5 along the northern flank of Pangong Lake in Eastern Ladakh. China has around 15,000 troops at various locations, including along the LAC.

Indian Army also moved in its troops in equal number with the formations of the 3 Division, entrusted with the responsibility of Eastern Ladakh.

A former diplomat said real de-escalation would happen only if status quo ante is reached. "If the Chinese resort to just status quo, it is part of their modus operandi and they have done so in the past as well with Aksai Chin. India should demand a status quo ante but still be wary of the Chinese's maximalistic approach," he said.

The unanimity to agreement reflected well when the Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesperson Zhao Lijian repeated what the Indian side said on the timeline of the disengagement. Asked about details of disengagement, he said, "The specific measures are under discussion between the border troops of the two sides."

US bans charters, India looks at 'bilateral bubbles'

PUSHKAR BANAKAR AND KUMAR VIKRAM @ New Delhi

INDIA is looking at the possibility of establishing 'bilateral arrangements' with some nations allowing airlines of each country to operate international passenger flights, said the Civil Aviation Ministry on Tuesday. The statement came after the US Department of Transportation (DoT) announced that it will not allow India's repatriation flights beyond July 22.

The ministry has received requests from authorities concerned in several countries including the US, France, Germany among others. These countries have requested that their air carriers be allowed to participate in the transportation of passengers along the line being conducted by Air India under Vande Bharat Mission. These requests are being examined, said the ministry.

India has been operating charter flights to bring back citizens stranded abroad | FILE

"As we move from controlled and managed aviation evacuation of our citizens in different parts of the world and foreign nationals from India, we are now looking at the possibility of establishing bilateral arrangements," it said.

The ministry also said it was looking at the prospect of establishing 'individual bilateral bubbles' namely India-US, India-France, India-Germany, India-UK. These are all destinations where demand for travel has not diminished, it said.

The US has accused India of indulging in unfair and discriminatory practices amid the coronavirus pandemic through charter flights. As per the order, Indian airlines will now have to take permission and authorisation from the DoT before flying charter flights to the US. The order seems to be an apparent retaliation for the Indian government not allowing American carriers to operate.

The order said that the move was aimed at creating a level playing field for US airlines in accordance with the US-India Transport Agreement.

India has suspended international passenger flights since March 25 due to Covid-19. Air India started international chartered flights under Vande Bharat Mission from May 6, primarily to help stranded Indians return home. The ministry said these flights are now also flying citizens of other countries to their home.

Sonia tears into govt on Covid, LAC handling

CONTINUING her attack on the Centre, Congress chief Sonia Gandhi Tuesday said that India had been hit by "a terrible economic crisis, a pandemic of huge proportions and a full-blown crisis on the borders with China" and much of each was "attributable to the mismanagement of the BJP-led NDA government and the wrong policies pursued by it".

Speaking at the Congress Working Committee meeting, Sonia said "true to its character, the government is in denial" about China's brazen transgressions. Criticising the Covid-19 handling, she said "the grave deficiencies" in the health infrastructure had been exposed. "The mismanagement of the pandemic will be recorded as one of the most disastrous failures of the Modi government," she added. ENS

TRUMP ADMN SUSPENDS VISA

'VISA ORDER TO HIT BOTH INDIA & US'

What does the Trump administration order on visa suspension say?
The order suspended the entry of additional workers through the H-1B and other non-immigrant visa programmes till the end of the year saying such entries would pose a threat to employment opportunities for Americans amid the pandemic.

The order said the Covid-19 had disrupted the livelihoods in the US and millions of Americans were out of work. "American workers compete against foreign nationals for jobs in every sector of our economy, including against millions of aliens who enter the US to perform temporary work. Temporary workers are often accompanied by their spouses and children, many of whom also compete against American workers," said the proclamation.

FAQ

What are the categories of visas suspended?
The categories of visa suspended include H-1B, H-2B, L-1A, L-1B and J-1. The H-1B visa allows US companies to employ graduate-level workers in specialised occupations like IT. Indians receive a significant share of the total H1-B visas. H sector-4 visa for spouses of H-1 B visa holders would also remain suspended. H2B visas for low-skill seasonal jobs, J visas for student exchanges and L visas for internal company transfers would be on hold, too.

How many Indians are likely to be affected?
Indians get around 70 per cent of the total 85,000 H-1B visas issued every year. A majority of these workers belong to IT companies. Expressing disappointment at the decision, Sundar Pichai, CEO of Google and Alphabet, tweeted, "Immigration has contributed immensely to America's economic success, making it a global leader in tech, and also Google the company it is today. Disappointed by today's proclamation – we'll continue to stand with immigrants and work to expand opportunity for all."

What would be the repurcussions on Indian economy and US economy?
Experts said the repercussions of the suspension will be on both the Indian and the US economies. It "could be an election exercise", but will hurt businesses in both countries, said K R Shyam Sundar, labour economist and professor, human resources management at XLRI, Jamshedpur. "Though the Indian IT giants have started accessing local talent as opposed to the past, the business models could undergo a change and their cost mapping will get hit," he said.

Diplomat-turned-politician Pawan Verma said, "The presence of Indians in America carries a quotient which has proved its efficacy in terms of contributions to the American economy. We live in difficult times and countries often build walls when there is a pandemic in place... The way to resolve this is for both India and the US to have a diplomatic dialogue at the appropriate level."

India's IT sector in for a mild shock; tech giants slam order

BISMAH MALIK @ Bengaluru

INDIA'S IT sector is expected to feel a mild jolt after the US extended the ban on H-1B visas till the end of 2020. President Donald Trump issued a new executive order extending the 60-day ban on immigration and non-immigrant worker visas till December 31. While India's $190 billion IT/ ITes industry has reduced its dependency on H-1B visas over the last few years, it will still feel the impact of the order. The US Citizenship and Immigration Services Council (USCIS) issued a total of 3,88,403 H-1B visas during FY2019 with 71.7% of these visas issued to Indian workers.

> I had got a message that my application was selected in the lottery but my visa has not been issued. Now, I do not think it will be issued. I have been left in the lurch
> Ravi Teja Kanuri, an employee of an IT firm

According to top industry watchers, the H-1B visa ban will have a short term (6 to 9 months) impact on the IT industry. However, it will eventually lead to a pattern of offshore work culture and more local hiring by Indian IT companies in the US. It will negatively impact the margins with local hiring in the US expected to cost 25-30% more than the regular H-1B visa hires. Analysts are also expecting a delay in project deliverability and client acquisitions due to a lack of talent for some specialist positions in the US.

USCIS and National Foundation for American Policy data shows that number of H-1B visas issued to the top Indian IT services providers including TCS, Cognizant, Tech Mahindra, Infosys andWipro have declined by more than 60% in last five years. It went down from 18,320 visas in 2015 to 6,855 in 2020. The denial rate for the H-1B visas has increased by 32 per cent during the same period, credits rating agency ICRA said.

Nasscom, Microsoft, Google, Twitter, and Tesla condemned the US government's move calling it 'disastrous' for the American economy.

India's apex IT body Nasscom said that the H-1B visa ban is misguided and harmful to the US economy. It will limit the access to the overseas talent and will force more work to be moved offshore, it said. Nasscom has also sought to shorten the burden of these restrictions to 90 days.

Google CEO Sundar Pichai was also disappointed by Trump's proclamation. Microsoft president Brad Smith said, "Now is not the time to cut our nation off from the world's talent or create uncertainty and anxiety. Immigrants play a vital role in our company and support our country's critical infrastructure. They are contributing to this country at a time when we need them most."

Twitter VP Jessica Herrera said that this proclamation undermines America's greatest economic asset- its diversity.

Decision on pending board exams likely today

NEW DELHI: The Centre and the CBSE told the Supreme Court on Tuesday that a decision on whether to scrap or not the pending Class XII examinations in view of increasing Covid-19 cases is likely to be taken on Wednesday.

The stand was communicated by Solicitor General Tushar Mehta to a bench headed by Justice A M Khanwilkar. Saying that the government and the board were aware of the anxiety of students, Mehta assured to apprise the court about the decision taken and requested the bench to adjourn the matter for a day. The bench, after hearing Mehta's submissions, adjourned the matter for June 25.

The SC was hearing a plea filed by some parents seeking a direction to the CBSE to declare the results on the basis of exam already conducted and to calculate it on an average basis with internal assessment marks of remaining subjects. The plea has also sought quashing of the CBSE's May 18 notification announcing that the pending exams would be held from July 1 to July 15. ENS

Two crore workers got cash help in lockdown

PUSHKAR BANAKAR @ New Delhi

A total of ₹4,957 crore has been disbursed as cash assistance to over 2 crore building and other construction workers (BOCW) during the lockdown period, the labour ministry said Tuesday.

"About 1.75 crore transactions were done directly into the bank accounts of the workers. Apart from cash benefits ranging from ₹1,000 to ₹6,000 per worker, some of the states have also provided food and ration to their workers," the statement added.The ministry had on March 24 issued an advisory to states to transfer funds to the BOCW through Direct Benefit Transfer from the construction cess created.

However, the ministry admitted that some BOCWs are out of range due to reasons such as their migratory nature, changing work-sites, low levels of literacy and awareness.

"The ministry has planned to launch a Mission Mode Project to fast-track the registration of the left-out workers, portability of benefits, universalisation of social security schemes on health insurance through PMJAY , life & disability cover through PMJJBY and PMSBY, pension during old age through PMSYMY and provision of transit accommodations in cities," the statement said.

Kanpur shelter home: Opposition demands probe

District administration sticks to its stand that the victims of sexual assault were already pregnant before coming to the shelter home

NAMITA BAJPAI @Lucknow

THE Uttar Pradesh government on Tuesday issued orders to conduct Covid-19 test of all inmates lodged in women and children shelter homes and observations homes across the state. Meanwhile, the issue of seven girls being found pregnant and 57 testing positive for Covid-19 at a government-run shelter home in Kanpur continued to make a buzz across the political circles.

While the opposition parties demanded a probe in the whole incident, the Kanpur district administration stood by its stand on the issue. Kanpur district probation officer Ajit Kumar claimed that all the girls - victims of sexual assault under POCSO Act — were already pregnant when admitted to the shelter home. These girls were admitted to the home on the recommendation of Child Welfare Committees (CWC) of various districts between November 29, 2019 and June 10, 2020, he explained. The police have already filed charge sheets against the accused in five of these cases while investigation is underway in the other two, said the official. Of the seven girls who are pregnant, five have tested positive.

The opposition parties have accused the government of failing to protect the inmates and called for an impartial probe in the matter. Both, Samajwadi Party chief Akhilesh Yadav and Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra had tweeted their suspicions over the role of authorities. On Tuesday, BSP chief Mayawati also joined the demand for a probe in the issue. Mayawati tweeted that instead of protecting their honour, the authorities had failed to provide security to women in the state. She asked the CM Adityanath to take cognizance and get a high-level probe conducted into the incident.

Meanwhile, UP govt's Women and Child Welfare Department has asked all district magistrates to carry out Covid tests of all inmates lodged in shelter homes in their districts. There are over 300 shelter and observation homes with around 5,500 inmates across the state.

Earlier, five samples from all homes were collected and tested. Only one, from the shelter home, tested positive. "This led to further tests in shelter home where 57 inmates tested positive. Hence, now samples of all the inmates will be tested," said an official.

> Kanpur shelter home incident again proves that the UP government is careless, irresponsible in protecting women, leave alone respecting them —Mayawati, BSP chief

Nepal allows repairing works on barrage

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

AFTER negotiating with the officials of local administration of India, officials of Nepal government on Tuesday agreed on conditions to allow the repair works on the embankment of Valmiki Nagar-based Gandak barrage in West Champaran.

The repair works were also stopped in Valmiki Nagar barrage embankment areas before the works of dam repairing were stopped on Lalakiya river in East Champaran on June 15 by Nepal. The Nepal government allowed movement of labourers with material on embankment in West Champaran only after they produce the certificates of not being infected with Covid-19.

A official source said, the repairing works started on Tuesday, with labourers and engineers of WRD (Water Resource Department) went towards Nepal side. Bagaha SDM Vishal Raj said that groups of 50 labourers of WRD (Water Resource Department) of Bihar were permitted first and more will go if needed. Officials are in negotiations with Nepal government to sort out the issue at Lalakiya river in East Champaran also.

The WRD had also requested the MEA and water resources in the Centre to intervene to sort out the issues before the flood hits the state.

DELHI RIOTS

Jamia student activist Safoora finally gets bail

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Delhi High Court on Tuesday granted bail to student-activist Safoora Zargar, who was arrested on April 10 in connection with a North-east Delhi riots case.

Justice Rajiv Shakhdher granted her regular bail after the Delhi Police did not oppose the bail on humanitarian grounds. This was a reversal of its earlier stand, when the police stated that Zargar's pregnancy did not dilute the gravity of the offence alleged against her.

Zargar has to furnish a personal bond of ₹10,000. The court also directed her not to indulge in activities for she is being investigated. In the court order, she was also "refrained from hampering investigation" and barred from leaving Delhi without leave of the trial court. The bail conditions also require her to remain in touch with the investigating officer.

Zargar has been charged under the stringent Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA) for her alleged role in the Northeast Delhi riots that broke out in February. An M.Phil student of Jamia Millia Islamia, Zargar is more than four months pregnant and had requested for bail citing her pregnancy.

Appearing for Delhi Police, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta said, "The state has no problem with Safoora being released on bail provided she doesn't indulge in activities for which she is under probe."

Pulwama encounter: 2 militants, 1 jawan killed

FAYAZ WANI @Srinagar

TWO militants and a paramilitary jawan were killed in an encounter in Pulwama district that took place when the Special Operations Group (SOG) of J&K Police, Army and CRPF were pursuing terrorists near Bandzoo village, said DGP Dilbag Singh.

The CRPF jawan who killed was identified as Sunil Kale of Barshi tehsil of Maharashtra.

The DGP also revealed that Jaish militants are planning to carry out big IED attacks on security forces. "We have reports that JeM militants are again trying to carry out some big IED attacks. We are exercising full restraint and full alert," the DGP said.

Meanwhile, Hilal Ahmad, a PhD scholar from Srinagar who has been missing for days, has joined militant outfit Hizbul Mujahideen, police said on Tuesday.

The PhD scholar Hilal had gone missing while going for trekking with his friends in Ganderbal district on June 13. On Sunday, there were rumours that Hilal was among militants trapped in Zadibal area of downtown Srinagar. All three holed-up militants were killed in the subsequent encounter but Hilal was not among them, police said. If Hilal's family brings him back, police won't arrest him, said IG Vijay Kumar.

"If he accepts his family's requests, his homecoming would be facilitated. But if plunges fully into militancy then he will be dealt like any other militant," police said.

According to sources, Hilal was a close friend of Hizb commander Junaid Sehrai who was also killed in an encounter.

Kashmir to get multiplex soon

The first-ever multiplex in militancy-hit Kashmir would be operational from March 2021. It would be set up by Vijay Dhar, son of late D P Dhar, former union minister in the Indira Gandhi government. The theatres in Kashmir were shut in 1990 after militants ordered closure of all cinema halls.

RJD in trouble as Lalu aide quits post, MLCs join JD-U

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ Patna

ALL is not well in Rashtriya Janata Dal (RJD) camp in Bihar. On Tuesday, party's five MLCs resigned, forcing a split in its legislature group in the Bihar legislative council, and joined ruling JD-U headed by Chief Minister Nitish Kumar.

The development came on a day when former Union minister Raghuvansh Prasad Singh, one of the founding members of the RJD and a staunch supporter of its jailed supremo Lalu Prasad, stepped down as national vice-president in protest against the proposed induction of one of his rivals.

The five MLCs S M Qamar Alam, Sanjay Prasad, Radha Charan Seth, Ranvijay Kumar Singh and Dilip Rai met Vidhan Parishad acting chairman Awadhesh Narain Singh and personally handed over their resignation letters, officials of the Upper House of the bicameral legislature said.

They also requested Singh that they should be recognised as a separate group and allowed to merge with the JD-U.

Meanwhile, Raghuvansh Prasad Singh, who has stood with the party through thick and thin, shot off a letter announcing his resignation from the post expressing strong displeasure over the state of affairs in the RJD.

Singh, who is currently admitted to AIIMS, Patna, undergoing treatment for Covid-19, made it clear that he was not quitting the party but added he was extremely unhappy over the type of people the RJD was planning to induct.

Sources close to the RJD veteran, a former Union minister, confirmed that his displeasure stemmed from reports that Rama Singh, a mafia don-turned-politician to whom he lost his Vaishali Lok Sabha seat in the 2014 Lok Sabha polls, may join the party.

Bihar is likely to go for polls on October-November.

Manipur crisis: Four NPP ministers flown to Delhi

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

AS the BJP has been reduced to a minority in Manipur, four MLAs of ally National People's Party (NPP), who withdrew support to the saffron party-led government last week, were quietly flown to Guwahati by Assam Minister and BJP's troubleshooter Himanta Biswa Sarma.

"They (NPP MLAs) have been taken to Guwahati and subsequently, will be taken to Delhi," a minister in the state told this newspaper.

The four NPP MLAs will meet BJP's central leaders and explain what made them to pull out of the government.

NPP's Manipur chief miffed with CM

The NPP's Manipur leadership is miffed with the CM for his alleged "autocratic" style of functioning. As pressure was being mounted on the party MLAs to return to the government, the party leadership felt it would be loss of face to do that just days after ditching the government.

The developments came just days after three BJP MLAs resigned from the party and the Assembly and six others — four from NPP, one from All India Trinamool Congress (AITC) and an independent MLA — joined Congress which had prompted the grand old party to stake claim.

Earlier on Tuesday, Sarma and Meghalaya Chief Minister Conrad Sangma, who is also the NPP president, held closed door meetings with the NPP and the BJP MLAs.

The NPP's Manipur leadership is also miffed with the CM for his alleged "autocratic" style of functioning. As pressure was being mounted on the party MLAs to return to the government, the party leadership felt it would be loss of face to do that just days after ditching the government.

Meanwhile, the Congress is suddenly under siege as former chief minister Okram Ibobi Singh was summoned by the CBI. A team of the probe agency reached Imphal on Tuesday. The case against Singh pertains to alleged embezzlement of funds in the Manipur Development Society (MDS).

Apart from him, others named by the CBI in the FIR are former MDS chairmen, former MDS project director, and its administrative officer.

Availability of PPE kits still a major issue in Indian hospitals: Survey

SUMI SUKANYA DUTTA @ New Delhi

THE first systematic survey on the status of personal protective equipment for health care workers in India has revealed that almost all components of PPE were found to be either inadequately available or unavailable in most hospitals.

PPEs are a crucial medical resource for frontline workers during the pandemic that include body coveralls, N-95 masks, goggles, face shields among others.

The government has been claiming that after the initial weeks of the pandemic, PPE were only imported and there is no shortage since the last few months as tens of domestic manufacturers are producing nearly 4.5 lakh PPE kits per day now. However, the latest survey by a group of independent health researchers has confirmed that frontline workers are still not getting these kits.

The survey was based on responses from doctors, residents and interns, nurses and community health workers. Nearly a third of respondents reported that N95 masks were not available at all. "One of the surprising and important findings is the lack of formal training on PPE. Over half had not received any training and a fifth reported that they self-taught themselves," said Dr Subhashri B of CommonHealth, one of the three researchers behind the survey.

"Also, about 88 per cent did not have knowledge of appropriate PPE recommended for their work setting," she added. "This has implications for their use of PPE and also for the fact that several have fears and concerns that should be addressed." Over a third of all respondents in the survey reported reusing their PPE.

In the survey, it was found that only 20 per cent had N95 regularly available in adequate quantities and just over a quarter of respondents who worked in wards reported that N95 masks were regularly available to them.

Of those working in labour rooms, less than a third reported regular availability of face shields. One in five working in operation theatres reported that face shields were not available at all and mong among those working in ICU settings, only half reported regular availability of N95 masks in adequate quantities

The findings also suggest that not even all ICU workers get coveralls, goggles and face shields regularly in hospitals. The situation was not different in public sector facilities or red zone districts, it showed.

Over one in five of those working in red zone districts reported that N95 masks were not available to them. Amongst those working in designated Covid centres, just over a third responded that N95 masks were regularly available in adequate quantities.

Haj cancelled after Saudi Arabia asks India not to send pilgrims

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

The Centre on Tuesday announced cancellation of Haj 2020 after receiving a communication from Saudi authorities to not send Indian pilgrims in view of coronavirus pandemic.

Last night, the Saudi authorities announced that Haj 2020 will be held with limited number of pilgrims from various nationalities but only those who are already residing in Saudi Arabia will be allowed to perform Islamic pilgrimage.

The decision was taken after Saudi Arabia's Haj and Umrah Minister Mohammad Saleh bin Taher Benten suggested not to send pilgrims from India for Haj this year, Union Minority Affairs Minister Mukhtar Abbas Naqvi said.

Naqvi said 2,13,000 applications had been received for Haj 2020 and the process to refund the full amount of money deposited by the applicants without any deduction has been started immediately.

The money will be refunded through online Direct Benefit Transfer mode into bank accounts of applicants, the Minority Affairs Minister said, adding this will be the first time since Independence that pilgrims from India will not be going for Haj due to the unprecedented situation posed by the pandemic.

14-day quarantine for visitors

The Chandigarh Administration has ordered a mandatory self home quarantine of fourteen days for visitors from outside the tri-city area. However, this order will not apply to visitors spending less than 72 hours in the city. This will help business executives and government employees who come to the city for official work and leave after a short stay. The visitors will have to declare the duration of their stay on entering the city. The police have been directed to ensure that there is regular checking of people coming from outside the tri-city area to Chandigarh.

Only 50 per cent of road gullies cleared

The residents of Chandigarh may have to face the problem of water logging again. With the monsoon predicted to arrive on June 25, the Chandigarh Municipal Corporation has been able to clear only 50 per cent of the road gullies due to the ongoing locdown. The city has 30,000 road gullies and only 15,000 have been cleaned so far. The process of clearing all the road gullies may take up to July 15. Most of the gullies on main roads have been cleaned and those on internal roads are left. Every year, around ₹1.25 crore is spent on cleaning road gullies. According to authorities, northern sectors from sector 1 to 20 have road gullies of capacity upto 15 mm, sectors 20 to 40 have gullies upto 20-km capacity and southern sectors have it upto 25 mm. Last year too, the issue was raised in the general House because despite spending this amount, the roads remained clogged.

No containment zone in Chandigarh

There is no containment zone in Chandigarh now. The administration decided to open up several pockets in Bapu Dham Colony, such as Pocket No.15, 13, 20, and 07, on basis of reports from the area. While the administration has removed perimeter control from these areas, regular surveillance and sanitization of these areas will continue. According to the authorities, if there was a fresh outbreak in any of the areas that had recently been opened up, restrictions would be imposed again. The administration has advised residents to wear masks and strictly follow social distancing and hand hygiene norms. They should also inform the administration about any suspected case.

Covid-19 test price capped at ₹2,000

The Chandigarh Administration has capped the price of the Covid-19 test at a private laboratory at ₹2,000. SRL Diagnostics Laboratory is the only private lab authorised to conduct corona tests in the city. Earlier, the rate was fixed at₹4,500. Given reports of frequent violations of social distancing and mask-wearing rules, the administration has decided to undertake a special drive to impose an on-the-spot fine on such violators. The administration has already fixed a fine ₹500 for spitting in public places and violating social distancing norms by shops, ₹2,000 for violating home quarantine instructions, ₹500 for violation of social distancing norms of auto-rickshaws and two-wheelers, ₹2,000 for cars and ₹3,000 for buses.

Germany bans far-right group in four states

German police conducted raids on sites linked to a far-right group after the country's top security official deemed it extremist. Interior Minister Horst Seehofer banned the group Nordadler, which means 'Northern Eagle'. His office said the police raids were carried out in four German states. The group spreads far-right extremist ideology and anti-Semitism.

Rayshard Brooks' funeral held at King's former church

Friends and relatives of Rayshard Brooks began arriving at the historic Atlanta church that was once the Rev Martin Luther King Jr's pulpit for a funeral for the Black man whose killing by a white police officer in a fast-food parking lot stoked protests across the US over racial injustice. Brooks was shot on June 12 by Officer Garrett Rolfe at a Wendy's drive-through.

England to unlock by reopening pubs

Starting July 4, the 2 metre social-distance gap with be relaxed to 1 metre, govt announced

LONDON

MILLIONS of people in Britain will be able to go to the pub, visit a movie theater, get a haircut or attend a religious service starting July 4, in a major loosening of coronavirus lockdown restrictions. But they will have to wait a bit longer to see a concert, get a tattoo or go to the gym.

Prime Minister Boris Johnson announced on Tuesday that a swath of businesses can reopen next month, including restaurants, bars, hotels, hairdressers, cinemas and museums. Other businesses, including gyms, pools, spas and tattoo parlours have to stay shut for now.

The government's decision will help thaw a British economy that has been in deep freeze for three months under a nationwide lockdown imposed to slow the spread of the virus.

Johnson told lawmakers that "our long national hibernation" was coming to an end.

"We cannot lift all the restrictions at once, so we have to make difficult judgments," Johnson said. "The more we open up, the more vigilant we will have to be."

Starting July 4, places of worship will be allowed to hold services, though singing by choirs and congregations remains banned since it could transmit the virus. For the same reason, live music and theater performances are still off-limits.

The government also announced that social-distancing rules will be relaxed. From July 4, individuals will be advised to stay at least 1 metre apart from others, rather than 2 metres — as long as they take other measures to reduce transmission of the virus, such as wearing a mask in enclosed spaces.

The social distancing requirement is also a concern for educators hoping to safely open British schools in the fall.

Britain has Europe's highest death toll from the virus, with almost 42,700 confirmed dead. That is also the third-highest death toll in the world after the US and Brazil, which both have much larger populations.

The government said businesses will be getting detailed advice on how to become "Covid-secure." And it said people should only meet indoors with members of one other household at a time.

The measures announced by Johnson apply only in England. Other parts of the UK —Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland — are all following slightly different lockdown plans. AP

Germany imposes restrictions in western state

BERLIN: German authorities slapped new lockdown measures on Tuesday on a western region that has seen hundreds of coronavirus infections linked to a slaughterhouse, trying to make sure the cluster doesn't race into the wider community. More than 1,550 people have tested positive for coronavirus at the Toennies slaughterhouse in Rheda-Wiedenbrueck and thousands more workers and family members have been put under a quarantine to try to halt the outbreak. The governor of the state, Armin Laschet, said people in Guetersloh and parts of a neighbouring county for the next week will face some of the same restrictions that existed across Germany during the early stages of the pandemic in March. AP

UK to probe biscuit factory for new cases

London: A cookie factory in the UK which supplies McVities biscuits has reported coronavirus cases among five of its staff members, prompting health officials to investigate the Covid-19 infections. Public Health England said it was aware of cases at the Pladis Factory in the South Wigston village in the south of Leicester. Saudi to allow only 1,000 Hajj pilgrims

RIYADH: Saudi Arabia on Tuesday said only around 1,000 pilgrims of various nationalities already in the kingdom will be allowed to perform a dramatically scaled-down hajj, as it battles a coronavirus surge. The pilgrimage will be limited to those below 65 years of age and with no chronic illnesses, Health Minister Tawfiq al-Rabiah said. The pilgrims will be tested for coronavirus before arriving in Mecca AFP

46 new cases reported as 'second wave' hits S. Korea

SEOUL

SOUTH KOREA reported 46 new coronavirus cases on Tuesday after health authorities declared the country was battling a second wave of infections that had been circulating for weeks.

The South endured one of the worst early outbreaks of the disease outside China, but appears to have brought it broadly under control thanks to an extensive "trace, test and treat" programme while never imposing a compulsory lockdown. Social distancing rules were relaxed after a public holiday in early May and the country has since been returning largely to normal.

But in the last month, the South has seen around 35 to 50 cases a day, mostly in the Seoul metropolitan area where half of the population lives.

"We believe the second wave has been running since it was triggered by the May holiday," said Jung Eun-kyeong, director of Korea's Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Officials reimposed some social distancing measures in late May following fresh clusters in and near Seoul, and most cases reported in the past week have been domestic infections.

Of the 46 new cases reported on Tuesday — taking the country's total to 12,484 — 30 were people arriving from overseas.

Seoul Mayor Park Won-soon warned on Monday that the capital would have to go back to strict social distancing measures if the number of infections in the city topped 30 on each of the next three days.

"What has been discovered in the past five months is that you can prevent virus infections as long as you follow the basic disinfection rules and the government's guidelines," South Korean President Moon Jae-in said on Tuesday. AFP

Singapore Prime Minister Lee Hsien Loong said on Tuesday that he has decided to call for general elections to "clear the decks" and give the new government a fresh five-year mandate, amid the coronavirus pandemic that has battered the city-state's economy. Singapore on Tuesday reported 119 new cases of coronavirus, taking the country's Covid-19 tally to 42,432

RETALIATION

China irked by US' propaganda label on 4 of its media outlets

BEIJING

CHINA threatened on Tuesday to retaliate against new US restrictions on Chinese state media, escalating tensions between the two superpowers as they crack down on each other's news outlets.

The US State Department said on Monday it was reclassifying four organisations — China Central Television, China News Service, the People's Daily and the Global Times — as foreign missions rather than media outlets in the US, adding to five others designated in February.

China has already expelled more than a dozen American journalists as part of the row.

On Tuesday Beijing decried the latest US move as "barefaced political suppression of Chinese media" that "further exposes the hypocrisy of the so-called freedom of speech and press which the US likes to flaunt".

"We strongly urge the US to reject this Cold War mindset and ideological bias... otherwise China will have no choice but to make an appropriate response," said foreign ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian at a routine briefing.

All nine Chinese state-run news organisations will be required to report details of their US-based staff and real estate transactions to the State Department. Their news reporting will not be restricted, officials said.

"These four entities are not media outlets; they are propaganda outlets," David Stilwell, the top US diplomat for East Asia, told reporters.

The five state news outlets earlier designated as foreign missions were Xinhua news agency, China Global Television Network, China Radio International and the US distributors of the People's Daily and English-language China Daily.

After these outlets were ordered to slash their numbers of Chinese employees in the United States, Beijing hit back in March by expelling US citizens working for three major newspapers — The New York Times, The Wall Street Journal and The Washington Post. AFP

Trump never told to slow Covid testing: Fauci

WASHINGTON

US disease expert Anthony Fauci told Congress on Tuesday that Donald Trump never told him or other officials to curb coronavirus testing, essentially contradicting the president who told supporters he had urged such slowdown.

"None of us have ever been told to slow down on testing," Fauci told a House panel on US efforts to mitigate the pandemic, adding that "in fact we will be doing more testing" instead of less.

Trump raised alarm bells Saturday when he told a Tulsa campaign rally — where most attendees were not wearing masks or following social distancing guidelines — that testing is a "double-edged sword," and that he had told his experts to "slow the testing down."

Fauci was testifying along with the heads of the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the Food and Drug Administration and a top official at the Department of Health and Human Services.

Since Fauci's last appearance at a high-profile hearing more than a month ago, the US has been emerging from weeks of stay-at-home orders and business shutdowns.

But it's being done in an uneven way, with some states far less cautious than others. A trio of states with Republican governors who are bullish on reopening — Arizona, Florida and Texas — are among those seeing worrisome increases in cases.

Fauci has recently warned that the US is still in the first wave of the pandemic and has continued to urge the American public to practice social distancing. And, in a recent ABC News interview, he said political demonstrations such as protests against racial injustice are "risky" to all involved. Asked if that applied to Trump rallies, he said it did. Fauci continues to recognise widespread testing as critical for catching clusters of Covid-19 cases before they turn into full outbreaks in a given community. AFP/AP

ENEMY WITHIN

US soldier charged in plot to ambush his unit overseas

NEW YORK

THE new top federal prosecutor in Manhattan on Monday announced her first case since the weekend's upheaval: the arrest of a US Army soldier charged with plotting a deadly ambush of his unit in Turkey by extremists.

In a release, Acting US Attorney Audrey Strauss called Private Ethan Melzer, 22, of Louisville, Kentucky, "the enemy within." His lawyers declined comment.

Strauss said he plotted to let members of an extremist group descend on his unit by providing details about its location and security arrangements. She identified the group he tried to work with as the Order of the Nine Angles, also known as O9A, described in the release as an occult-based neo-Nazi and racially motivated violent extremist group.

Court papers also said he researched terrorist groups, including the Islamic State.

Meltzer enlisted in the Army in 2018 was arrested June 10. He faces charges including trying to support terrorists and conspiring to murder military members. If convicted, he could face life in prison. AP

Nearly all in the US back criminal justice reform

Americans overwhelmingly want clear standards on when police officers may use force and consequences for officers who do so excessively, according to a new poll that finds nearly all Americans favour at least some level of change to the nation's criminal justice system

STRONG SUPPORT FOR CHANGE

The new poll from The Associated Press-NORC Center for Public Affairs Research also finds there is strong support for penalising officers who engage in racially biased policing

Sellers on GeM must list items' country of origin

Commerce ministry also contemplating a similar move for private e-commerce firms

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE government Tuesday made it mandatory to mention 'Country of Origin' for sellers listing their products on government e-marketplace (GeM), and is also contemplating a similar move for private e-commerce firms. "Sellers, who had uploaded their products before the introduction of this new feature on GeM, are being reminded regularly to update the Country of Origin, with a warning that their products shall be removed from GeM if they fail to update the same," the commerce ministry said in a statement.

Officials in the Department for Promotion of Industry and Internal Trade (DPIIT) said a virtual meet with representatives of e-commerce companies including Amazon, Flipkart and Snapdeal will held on June 24 to discuss similar measures. Additionallt, the DPIIT has drawn up a list of 1,172 Made in China items and has sought views from India Inc on likely curbs in a bid to reduce import dependence.

The expansive list ranges from consumer goods such as refrigerator and microwave ovens, electrical goods such as switches, automobile components, among others. The list also have some of the items, which are critical for manufacturing value chains in India as those goods are not made in India, an official said.

The move comes close on the heels of traders' body Confederation of All India Traders (CAIT) urging Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal to extend the order that mandated disclosure of the name of the country of origin to e-commerce amidst rising call to ban Chinese items.

"To promote Make in India and build self-reliance India, such provision should be applicable on all e-commerce portals operating in the country as well. Most of these firms are selling Chinese goods in large percentages on their portals," CAIT Secretary General Praveen Khandelwal said.

The GeM has also enabled a provision for indication of the percentage of local content in products. "With this new feature, the Country of Origin as well as the local content percentage will be visible for all items. More importantly, the 'Make in India' filter has now been enabled on the portal," the statement added.

India to see reduced inequality gap post Covid-19

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Hyderabad

INCOME inequality gap in India is likely to narrow significantly post Covid-19 as earnings in rich states will likely decline faster than the poor states, according to SBI Research. It added that India's per capita income — a measure of the earnings per person in a nation — will decline by 5.4 per cent this fiscal to ₹1.43 lakh, higher than the decline in nominal GDP at 3.8 per cent, while real GDP is expected to contract by 6.8 per cent.

Likewise, global per capita GDP will likely fall by 6.2 per cent, much sharper than the projected 5.2 per cent decline in the world GDP.

However, the proposed decline, Ghosh added, was similar to what was witnessed in Germany following the collapse of the Berlin war in 1989. "We expect that the inequality gap in India will narrow down post-Covid pandemic as decline in income of rich states will be much greater than the decline in income of poor states," said Sowmya Kanti Ghosh, Group Chief Economic Adviser, SBI.

Worryingly, the country's rich states (with per capita income greater than national average) will be most-affected. For instance, in Delhi, it could shrink by 15.4 per cent followed by Chandigarh at 13.9 per cent — almost thrice the contraction expected at national levels of 5.4 per cent. Others like Maharashtra, Gujarat, Telangana, and Tamil Nadu may see a contraction of 10-12 per cent. The relatively less well off states like Madhya Pradesh, Uttar Pradesh, Bihar, Odisha (where per capita income is below national average), the decline could be less than 8 per cent.

In all, eight states and union territories, which account for as much as 47 per cent of the country's GDP, are expected to witness a decline in per capita income in double digits.

"This is due to the fact that these are the urban areas (and red zones also) where lockdown was implemented most severely. The closure of markets, shopping complexes and malls adversely affected income of these areas," Ghosh added.

Meanwhile, Ghosh believes India will clearly have a 'statistical V-shaped recovery/ Swoosh' in FY22, primarily due to the favourable base effect. Beyond that, it would take at least till FY24, if the country replicates the best case example in history, if not more before it gets back to the pre-pandemic level growth rate, the report noted.

RICH STATES TO BE MOST AFFECTED

In Delhi, for instance, per capital income could shrink by 15.4 per cent followed by Chandigarh at 13.9 per cent — almost thrice the contraction expected at national levels of 5.4 per cent. Others like Maharashtra, Gujarat and Telangana may see a contraction of 10-12 per cent.

IN a setback, ratings firm Icra on Tuesday downgraded Yes Bank's ₹1,344 crore worth Basel-II compliant upper tier II bonds ratings to default to D from BB rating.

The move comes amid news reports of the Reserve Bank of India agreeing to extend the special liquidity facility for another three months, even though the bank requested an extension of one year. The facility was announced for three months till June, 16. The downgrade factors in the bank's debt servicing ability linked to the bank meeting regulatory norms on capitalisation of nine per cent CRAR, the rating agency said. If Yes Bank reports a loss, the coupon or redemption can be paid with the prior approval of the RBI, provided that on such payment, the CRAR remains above 9 per cent, it added.

The bank has adequate liquidity for coupon payment, but as per Basel guidelines, it cannot be paid if CRAR falls below the regulatory requirement. On Tuesday, the central bank dismissed the lender's permission for the coupon payment in line with regulatory norms.

As a result, the timely servicing of the upcoming coupon, which is cumulative in nature remains constrained and the same is likely to be paid only when the bank achieves a CRAR of nine per cent, Icra noted.

Meanwhile, the bank is in the process of raising capital under the new management and Icra will monitor the second phase of capital raising before upgrading the ratings outlook to positive.

"Moreover, the stabilisation of the deposit base, continued improvement in the customer franchise by improving the share of retail deposits, and the ability to generate capital internally will be key trigger," it added.

INDIA SLAPS ANTI-DUMPING DUTY ON SOME STEEL ITEMS

ANURADHA SHUKLA @ New Delhi

THE Centre Tuesday imposed anti-dumping duty on imports of certain type of steel products from China, Vietnam, Korea for a period of five years to safeguard domestic manufacturers from cheap imports. According to a government notification dated June 23, the duty was imposed after the Commerce Ministry's investigation arm Directorate General of Trade Remedies (DGTR), in its probe, concluded that product which are originated or exported from these countries are below its associated normal value, which resulted in dumping and is hurting domestic industry.

The duty imposed is in the range of $13.07 per tonne to $173.1 per tonne on imports of ''flat-rolled product of steel, plated or coated with alloy of Aluminium and Zinc' from these three countries. This was a long-pending demand from the domestic steel players since last two years.

The DGTR had earlier initiated probe against certain kinds of aluminium foil imported from China, Indonesia, Malaysia and Thailand after getting complain from domestic players like Hindalco Industries, Raviraj Foils and Jindal India Ltd. Sources say that the Centre may initiate more probes and has listed about 400 items for duty hikes.

Indian Bank Q4 loss widens, but full year performance strong

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ Chennai

CHENNAI-based Indian Bank Tuesday reported a net loss of ₹218 crore in the fourth quarter of the fiscal 2020 even as it reported robust performance for the full year. Its net profit zoomed 134 per cent in FY20.

The public sector lender reported a net loss of ₹218 crore for the quarter ended March 31, 2020, when compared to a net loss of ₹190 crore in the year-ago quarter, mainly due to higher provisions. Operating profit was higher by 37 per cent at ₹1,703 crore and provisions were also higher at ₹1,921 crore, up 37 per cent as against ₹1,435 crore in Q4 FY19. Net profit for FY20 stood at ₹753 crore, the bank said.

Total income increased to ₹24,717 crore registering a y-o-y growth of 17 per cent. Net interest income rose by 14 per cent to ₹2,003 crore in Q4 FY20 as against the same period in the corresponding year while, net non-interest income grew by 48 per cent.

"Indian Bank has posted yet another year of strong performance. The bank's business grew 8 per cent to touch the ₹4.66 lakh crore mark, on the back of credit growth of 10 per cent (₹2.06 lakh crore) and deposits growth of seven per cent (₹2.6 lakh crore). Growth in advances was led by the retail sector, which grew at 16 per cent and well supported by the agriculture and MSME sector, growing 14 per cent and 13 per cent, respectively. Overseas advances also grew by 11 per cent," said Padmaja Chunduru, MD and CEO. She further highlighted that asset quality metrics of the bank registered good improvement with recovery from bad debts.

Gross NPAs fell to 6.87 per cent from 7.11 per cent posted in a year ago quarter. Net NPAs, too, declined to 3.13 per cent. Recovery from bad debts improved by 65 per cent. For FY21, the bank is targeting an overall growth of 11 per cent in both deposits and advances, Chunduru added.

Delivery of 4.7 lakh homes to be delayed

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE coronavirus outbreak is expected to delay the delivery of 4.66 lakh units by 2020-end in the top seven cities, said real estate consultancy firm Anarock Tuesday. About 4.12 lakh units which were likely to be completed in 2021 is also likely to get delayed, it added.

Launched after 2013, many of these projects in the seven cities — NCR, MMR, Bengaluru, Hyderabad, Chennai, Pune and Kolkata— were in the final leg of completion. Construction activity has zeroed down in the last few months owing to the lockdown and now the sector is facing the problem of labor shortage. Unless the shortage is addressed immediately, project deliveries will stutter going forward, the agency said. To overcome the labour crisis issue, few of the developer are seen wooing migrants with better opportunities, including increase in wages. As for the buyers, they may have to wait up to two years to get possession of their property. "Homebuyers will now have to adjust to new realities," said Anuj Puri, chairman, ANAROCK Property.

Economic indicators improving, farm sector showing signs of revival: FinMin

PATH TO RECOVERY

- Procurement of wheat from farmers touched an all-time high
- Similar improvement seen in Electricity, fertiliser consumption

THE Ministry of Finance Tuesday said various economic indicators have suggested that the economy is on the path to recovery as several activities improved after the government had relaxed the lockdown.

Citing examples of electricity consumption, rail freight traffic, fertilizer consumption, food grain procurement among indicators, the government said, "Early green shoots of economic revival have emerged in May and June with real activity indicators like electricity and fuel consumption, inter and intra-state movement of goods, retail financial transactions witnessing a pick up."

Highlighting that procurement of wheat from farmers had touched an all-time record figure of 38.2 million metric tonnes on June 16, the finance ministry in a statement said that farmers have sown 13.13 million hectares of kharif crops as of June 29, which is 39 per cent higher than the corresponding period last year.

Fertiliser sales have also surged by 98 per cent year-on-year in May 2020, hinting at a robust agriculture produce. The statement also notes that electricity consumption had improved from contraction of 19.8 per cent in the first week to contraction of 6.2 per cent in third week of June. Filing of e-way bills also improved by 130 per cent in May 2020, as compared to April 2020 and similar improvement was also seen in consumption of petrol and digital transaction, albeit much lower compared to last year. Earlier, economists had warned that FY21 could see a sharp contraction of 5 per cent.

Cargill forays into chocolate market in India with pan-Asia growth plans

SESA SEN @ New Delhi

US-based consumer goods maker Cargill is set to launch its chocolate manufacturing operation in India, also its debut in Asia, in collaboration with an Indian manufacturer.

The maker of edible oils such as Gemini and Sunflower said the production facility in West India will begin operating in mid-2021 and will produce about 10,000 tonnes of chocolate compounds, chocolate chips and chocolate paste annually, catering to ice cream and confectionery industries.

"India is a key growth market for Cargill. This partnership reinforces our commitment to increase our regional footprint and capabilities in Asia to better support the needs of our local Indian customers as well as multi-national customers in the region," said Francesca Kleemans, managing director, Cargill Cocoa & Chocolate Asia-Pacific.

The chocolate industry is growing at 13-14 per cent annually in the domestic market, and the market size of chocolate in the confectionery sector alone is estimated to be 2.6 lakh tonnes. "Combining local insights from our experience and long presence as a food ingredient supplier in India with our global cocoa and chocolate expertise, we aim to become the leading supplier in Asia," Kleemans said, adding consumer preference for chocolate has increased with a shift from traditional sweets to chocolate gifting and year-round consumption of ice cream besides baked goods.

However, the per capita consumption of chocolate is still low in India compared to global markets, she added.

Globally, the compamy invested about $3.9 million to expand its facility in Kalmthout, Belgium, adding a fifth gourmet chocolate production line and chocolate tanks.

Jaffer named Uttarakhand coach

Former India opener and domestic stalwart Wasim Jaffer has been appointed head coach of the Uttarakhand cricket team for the upcoming domestic season. This will be his first stint as a head coach with a team. The highest run-getter in Ranji Trophy, Jaffer had announced retirement in March this year.

MINISTER MOOTS AUGUST GATHERING

Federations of the opinion that resumption of sports will take longer

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

RESUMPTION of sports was the dominant theme in a discussion between the sports ministry and 15 top sports federations of the country on Tuesday. The meeting, called by sports minister Kiren Rijiju, emphasized on phased resumption of sports, leagues in particular, by August. The tenure of foreign coaches, participation in international events, submitting annual calendar of training and competition (ACTC) were other topics discussed.

One subject that raised some concern among the federations was a proposed salary cut for foreign coaches. The tenure of foreign coaches was also discussed. Most federations felt that the tenures should be extended at least until the 2022 Asian and Commonwealth Games instead of next year's Olympics. Though there was a suggestion for salary cut, after federations showed reservations, the sports minister apparently assured this will not come into effect.

The three-hour discussion felt it is necessary to host some kind of sports behind closed doors by August. The sports minister felt the resumption "will boost the confidence of our athletes and also create an atmosphere of normalcy in these trying times". He asked federations to discuss with league managers and propose a few events that can be organised in each sport. The ministry felt domestic tournaments involving non-or-minimal contact sports — like shooting, athletics, archery, fencing, cycling, weightlifting, even badminton and table tennis — can be held too.

Our president has told them we'll review the situation on July 15. If the situation is normal, we'll make plans and start training. Some federation said they can only start on November. If everything is ready, we're willing to make our domestic calendar.

Rajiv Bhatia, shooting body secretary

Given the situation, all the federations requested to increase the grants given for organising nationals and domestic events as it will be difficult to find sponsors. Obviously, we cannot finalise domestic calendar unless the international calendar is out.

Man Mohan Jaiswal, judo federation general secretary

Informed ministry that it will take at least a couple of months to prepare the calendar. We need guidelines from the government for organising the events. Our weightlifters have started training at the NIS Patiala but organising an event will take some time.

Sahdev Yadav, weightlifting federation secretary general

Though the federations are keen on starting the domestic calendar and organising leagues, most believe August would be too early for most. Except track and field athletes and weightlifting, no player is training at any national camp, or any other camp for that matter. Gymnasiums and swimming pools remain closed. Getting back into shape itself would take time. Quarantine restrictions differ from state to state and they will make travel difficult. Athletes, too, need to be confident to come out and play. Since most of the international competitions have been postponed or moved to next year, hosting events in August may not be the right idea. Later this year seems better but even for that, training has to start. Some federations also requested ministry to increase funds for hosting nationals as getting sponsors would be difficult.

Take the case of boxing. The Boxing Federation of India has already made a request to start training for select boxers at the Sports Authority of India centre in Patiala in a sanitised environment. The ministry is yet to give a go-ahead. It is learnt the federation made another request on Tuesday and even proposed that the venue could be changed to Bellary in Karnataka if required. The ministry is expected to make a call soon.

The meeting was attended by sports secretary Ravi Mital, SAI director general Sandip Pradhan, IOA chief Narinder Batra and its secretary general Rajeev Mehta. Presidents, secretary generals or representatives of archery, athletics, badminton, boxing, cycling, fencing, football, hockey, judo, shooting, swimming, table tennis, weightlifting and wrestling were present.

Djokovic courts controversy again

AFP @ Paris

Novak Djokovic's wife Jelena (R) also tested positive for coronavirus | AFP

FROM growing up with NATO bombs raining down on Serbia to securing his place amongst the Grand Slam greats, Novak Djokovic never fails to both divide and unite. The 33-year-old World No 1 has seemingly everything he needs.

Seventeen Grand Slam titles is just three behind the all-time record of Roger Federer who is five years older.

Despite his achievements, however, Djokovic appears doomed never to be held in the same saintly esteem as Federer or Rafael Nadal, the undisputed 'people's champions' of tennis. There are those that see something a little more calculating in the Djokovic make-up, an intense, brooding presence prone to affectation and fads and a little too 'new age' for most tastes. Nick Kyrgios described the Serb's post-victory "cup of love" gesture as "cringeworthy".

Kyrgios drove the knife in further this week when he branded Djokovic's ill-advised Adria Tour, which has seen the Serb test positive for coronavirus, as "bone-headed".

All had seemed set fair for Djokovic this year before the lockdown in March. He had secured a record eighth Australian Open and was on an 18-0 winning streak. But in the space of three months, his character and reputation have come crashing down. First of all, he was criticised for breaking lockdown rules to train in Spain. He then invited derision for insisting emotions can change the quality of water while almost simultaneously insisting that he would not be prepared to vaccinate against the coronavirus.

When he described limits on players' entourages at the US Open as "extreme" and "impossible", Djokovic found himself in the crosshairs again.

His backing of the Adria Tour in Belgrade and then Croatia, which has seen a raft of players as well as his own wife test positive for the virus, is for many the final straw.

SEVEN MORE PAK CRICKETERS TEST POSITIVE FOR COVID-19

KARACHI: Seven more Pakistan players due to tour England in August have tested positive for coronavirus, the country's cricket board said Tuesday, taking the total to 10 since the first results were announced. The Pakistan Cricket Board's chief executive Wasim Khan insisted the tour would still go ahead. "The tour is very much on the track and the squad will depart as per schedule on June 28th."

Two factions send names for Arjuna

ATREYO MUKHOPADHYAY @Chennai

INTERNAL fight in the All India Chess Federation (AICF) and the resultant confusion over authority have started affecting unexpected spheres. Both factions have received applications for Arjuna award and forwarded them to the sports ministry. It's up to the ministry now to decide whether to accept the nominations of one side, both sides or none.

The group headed by AICF president PR Venketrama Raja has received applications from Grandmasters SP Sethuraman, SL Narayanan and Women's Grandmaster Bhakti Kulkarni. The faction loyal to BS Chauhan has got applications from "two-three" players including India No 2 Vidit Gujrathi. It remains to be seen how many of these applications are entertained. The ministry said in the past it will not recognise anybody until elections are held.

Chauhan was removed from the secretary's post by Raja in March. He and his group didn't accept the decision and ousted Raja at an online meeting in April. The Raja group deems that meeting illegal. The matter has to be sorted in court, which is not possible at the moment. As a result, it can't be said with certainty who is the authorised custodian of chess in the country.

The players must have been confused by the state of affairs and that's why both factions ended up receiving applications for Arjuna. Vijay Deshpande, who was appointed interim secretary after Raja suspended Chauhan, said he has forwarded three names. Naresh Sharma, head of a five-member committee formed to run AICF in the online meeting, informed that he has also submitted "two-three" applications he received.

Gujrathi is the fastest rising Indian on the international scene. Ranked 23rd in the classical format in the world, he is India No 2 after Viswanathan Anand and a strong candidate for Arjuna considering performance over the last year or so.

Sethuraman, the India No 6, finished second in the Aeroflot Open in Moscow in 2018, which comes under the period for consideration for the award. Narayanan won the Elllobregat Open in Spain last year. Kulkarni won the national women's titles in 2018 and 2019.

3.8 BILLION
Earth's oceans formed 3.8 billion years ago, when the planet was already 700 million years old

Pandemic peaking in some big countries

WHO airs concern about rising number of virus cases, says Africa may be next epicenter

PREPARE, NOT PANIC

GENEVA: A record level of new daily Covid-19 cases worldwide could suggest the pandemic is peaking in some large countries, even as the coronavirus has become "well established", the World Health Organisation's emergencies chief said Monday.

Dr Michael Ryan said "the numbers are quickly rising because the epidemic is developing in a number of populous countries at the same time," even as it appears to be stabilising and even reducing in parts of Western Europe.

In its latest Situation Report late Sunday, WHO reported the largest single-day increase in coronavirus cases by its count — more than 183,000 new cases in a 24-hour period. That was underpinned by over 54,700 new cases in Brazil and more than 36,600 in the US.

Some countries have attributed their increased caseload to more testing, including India and the US, but Ryan dismissed that explanation.

"We do not believe this is a testing phenomenon," he said, noting that many countries have also noted marked increases in hospital admissions and deaths. "There definitely is a shift in that the virus is now very well established. The epidemic is now peaking or moving towards a peak in a number of large countries." The situation was "definitely accelerating" in a number of countries, including in South Asia and the Americas.

He aired new concerns about rising case counts in the Americas, and cited a record jump of over 54,000 daily cases in Brazil. There, nearly one in three people tested have turned up positive — suggesting that the case counts may be going unnoticed. Still, the overall pattern in Brazil was "relatively stable" in June, he said, adding that the 54,000 new cases in a 24-hour period "needs to be examined carefully" to determine the reason for the spike.

Brazil still has relatively low testing per population, Ryan said, and its rate of positive cases was 31 per cent — far higher than the five per cent rate generally found in countries that are detecting all of their cases.

As for Africa, Ryan cited a mixed situation but that numbers are "generally on the rise," noting increased cases in South Africa, Benin, Burundi, Eritrea and Ethiopia. Ryan said large cities appeared to be more affected. "Africa, at this point, is still avoiding the large proportion of deaths that have been associated with this disease in other continents," he said, noting that testing isn't frequent in Africa.

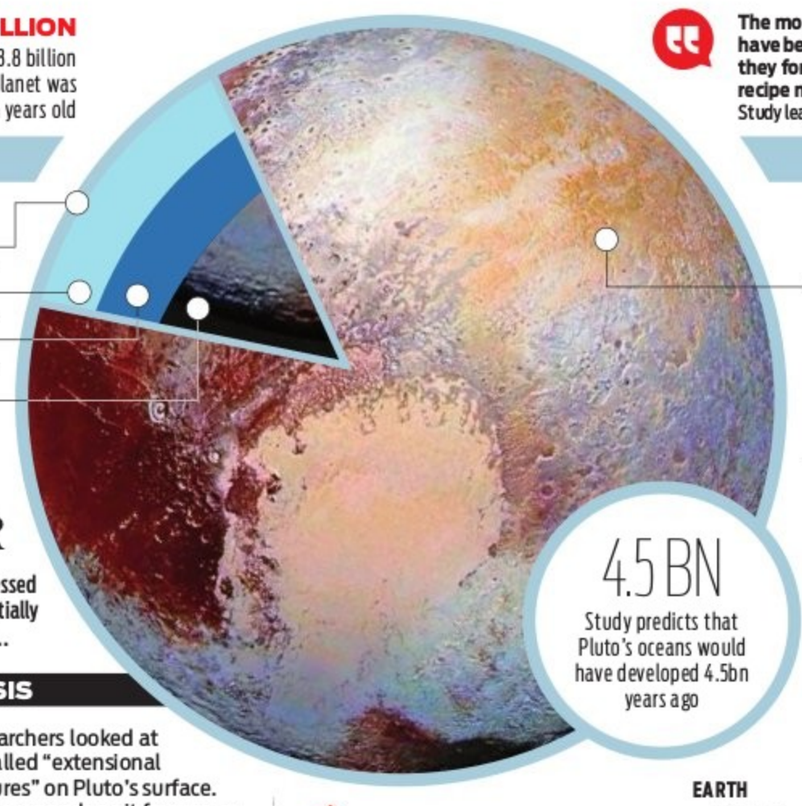
Africa's hospitals "do not appear in most countries to be overwhelmed," he said, noting exceptions in places like highly-populated Lagos, Nigeria. "There's no room for complacency in Africa," Ryan said. "Will Africa be the next epicenter? I hope not, because the health systems in Africa in general are weaker."

NEW RESEARCH

EXFILE

SHAPE OF WATER

A new research has found that Pluto may have possessed an underground ocean since early on in its life, potentially improving its chances of hosting life. A look at it...



4.5 BN
Study predicts that Pluto's oceans would have developed 4.5bn years ago

Ridges and troughs caused by water expanding as it freezes below ground

NEW STUDY

Pluto is known today as a ball of frozen ice and rock orbiting the sun at a distance of 3.7 billion miles. But a new study suggests that it may have been hot when it first formed, allowing liquid water to form on its surface and potentially providing the conditions needed to support alien life.

This differs from the traditional view that it originated as a ball of frozen ice and rock, which gradually melted enough to form a subsurface ocean due to heat released by the decay of radioactive elements in the rock.

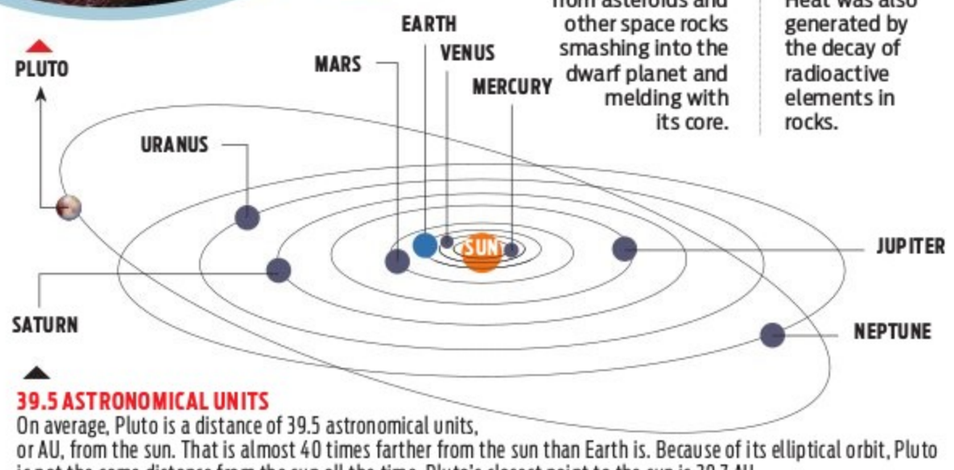
ANALYSIS

1. Researchers looked at so-called "extensional features" on Pluto's surface. Water expands as it freezes, so as Pluto's interior cooled, its surface stretched, generating recognizable structures.
2. Scientists compared thermal model simulations of the evolution of its interior to pictures of its surface taken by NASA's New Horizons spacecraft.
3. They identified ridges and troughs more than a mile deep on the dwarf planet, suggesting stresses from movements inside its shell caused by water expanding when it freezes.

OTHER FINDINGS

Other planets and dwarf planets in the Kuiper Belt — like Haumea and Makemake — may have also once been warm and capable of harbouring alien life. The suggests that much of Pluto's early heat came from asteroids and other space rocks smashing into the dwarf planet and melding with its core.

This 'warm phase' only lasted around 30,000 years — as a long gap between asteroid impacts would have meant it never got hot enough to create water. Heat was also generated by the decay of radioactive elements in rocks.



39.5 ASTRONOMICAL UNITS
On average, Pluto is a distance of 39.5 astronomical units, or AU, from the sun. That is almost 40 times farther from the sun than Earth is. Because of its elliptical orbit, Pluto is not the same distance from the sun all the time. Pluto's closest point to the sun is 29.7 AU.

> The most exciting implication is that subsurface oceans may have been common among the large Kuiper Belt objects when they formed. At this point, we don't know the ingredients or recipe needed for life to emerge on any world.

100mn South Asian kids could slip into poverty

While they may be less susceptible to the virus itself, children are being profoundly affected by the fallout, including the economic and social consequences of the lockdown.
UNICEF report

COVID IMPACT

KATHMANDU: More than 100 million children in South Asia could slip into poverty as a result of the coronavirus pandemic, a UN report said Tuesday of the long-term impact of the crisis.

Cases across the densely populated region — home to almost a quarter of the world's population — have risen in recent weeks even as the region lifts its lockdown to revive economies badly shattered by the virus. "While they may be less susceptible to the virus itself, children are being profoundly affected by the fallout, including the economic and social consequences of the lockdown," the report by the UNICEF said.

South Asia — which includes India, Pakistan, Afghanistan, Nepal, Bangladesh, Sri Lanka, the Maldives and Bhutan — is home to some 600 million children, with around 240 million already living in poverty, the agency said. In a worst-case scenario, the virus could push another 120 million into poverty and food insecurity within six months, it warned.

"Without urgent action now, Covid-19 could destroy the hopes and futures of an entire generation," UNICEF's South Asia regional director Jean Gough said in a statement.

Progress in healthcare — such as immunisation, nutrition and other services — were being "severely disrupted". In Bangladesh, UNICEF said it found that some of the poorest families could not afford three meals a day, while in Sri Lanka its survey showed that 30 percent of families had cut their food intake.

With schools shut, poorer children have struggled to keep up with their education, particularly those in rural households without internet access — or even electricity. "There are concerns that some disadvantaged students may join the nearly 32 million children who were already out of school before Covid-19 struck."

China launches last navigation satellite

DRAGON'S GPS

BEIJING: China on Tuesday successfully launched the last satellite of its BeiDou Navigation Satellite System (BDS), touted to be a competitor to the Global Positioning System (GPS) of the US, taking another step to becoming a major space power. The satellite was launched on Tuesday morning from the Xichang Satellite Launch Centre in southwest China's Sichuan Province.

The satellite, the 55th in the family of BeiDou that means "Big Dipper" in Chinese, was successfully sent into space by a Long March-3B carrier rocket, according to the China Satellite Navigation Office.

The launch will mark the completion of China's domestically developed BeiDou network, one of the four global navigation networks alongside with the US' GPS, Russia's GLONASS and the European Union's Galileo. India too is building its navigational system called Indian Regional Navigation Satellite System.

UV RAYS MAY REDUCE SPREAD INDOORS

EFFICIENT & AFFORDABLE

LONDON: Using ultraviolet (UV) light to inactivate the SARS-CoV-2 virus may be an efficient, easily deployable, and economically affordable method to reduce Covid-19 transmission in indoor spaces, according to a study. The study, published in the ACS Nano, analysed the currently available UV-C sources, such as fluorescent lamps, microcavity plasmas, and LEDs. It noted that by irradiating this type of light inside the ventilation systems of buildings and in shared indoor spaces while not in use, it is possible to quickly and efficiently deactivate airborne and surface-deposited SARS-CoV-2 viruses that cause Covid-19.

The researchers, including those from CFO — The Institute of Photonic Sciences in Spain, also explored costs and investments in deploying such technology.

They explained that a global capital investment of a few billion dollars in UV-C sources could protect indoor workers worldwide. A long series of studies suggest that virus transmission in indoor spaces has a much higher transmission rate than outdoors, the researchers noted.

Filters and chemicals have been presented as possible solutions to minimise this problem, they said. However, even though these are efficient solutions to reduce the concentration of contaminated particles and droplets through ventilation systems, their installation may be costly and time-consuming, according to the researchers.

Ring of ancient shafts found

MYSTICAL STONE

Archaeologists said that they have discovered a major prehistoric monument under the earth near Stonehenge that could shed new light on the origins of the mystical stone circle in south-western England. Experts from a group of British universities say the site consists of at least 20 huge shafts, more than 10 metres in diameter and five meters deep, forming a circle more than two kilometers in diameter. The new find is at Durrington Walls, the site of a Neolithic village about two kilometres from Stonehenge.

GREEN ENERGY

Clean air may have helped produce 8% more solar power

LOCKDOWN TALES

BOSTON: Based on data collected in Delhi, scientists report that the reduction in air pollution due to lockdown measures enforced in the country may have led to more sunlight reaching solar panels, resulting in the production of more clean energy. The findings, published in Joule, noted that in late March, the amount of sunlight reaching the solar panels in Delhi increased about eight per cent, compared with data from the same dates from 2017 to 2019.

According to the researchers, including those from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT) in the US, Delhi is one of the most polluted cities on the planet, with the sudden implementation of lockdown in India at the start of the pandemic improving the air quality drastically.

"That means that reductions in air pollution happened very suddenly, making them easier to detect," explained study first author Ian Marius Peters from Helmholtz-Institut Erlangen-Nurnberg for Renewable Energies in Germany.

Peters and his colleagues had earlier assessed how haze and air pollution impact the quantity of sunlight reaching the ground, and the effect of air pollution on the output of solar panels in Delhi.

The photovoltaic (PV) solar energy system they had in Delhi for the previous work was still in place, and they could use it to collect data on the amount of solar radiation reaching the PV installation, called the level of insolation.

The scientists found that the insolation at noon increased by about eight per cent. Based on the information on air quality and particulate matter, they suggested that reduced pollution levels were a major cause for the rise in energy levels.

"The increase that we saw is equivalent to the difference between what a PV installation in Houston would produce compared with one in Toronto," Peters said. "I expected to see some difference, but I was surprised by how clearly the effect was visible," he added.

Combined with their earlier results, the scientists believe the new findings provide a solid foundation to further study the impact of air pollution on solar resources. They also hope to find output of power from solar panels in other areas.

Rise in COVID cases prompts Vidyarthi Bhavan to suspend dine-in service

● Express Features

The spike in number of coronavirus cases in the city has prompted Vidyarthi Bhavan to stop its dine-in service from June 27 onwards.

The iconic restaurant in Basavanagudi, known for its hot benne dose for over seven decades, had brought much cheer among its regular clients when it opened its doors to customers while taking precautions about social distancing, earlier this month. They can now take heart from the fact that the eatery is continuing online delivery.

"We are voluntarily shutting down the dine-in service because of the sudden raise in number of COVID-19 cases. We are hearing a lot about the spread of infection due to community gathering and the second wave of cases of infections hitting us. It's a decision we took as a precaution," Arun Adiga, managing director of the restaurant, says, adding, "Due to the safety concerns, many people prefer to place orders online. They can also call us directly, and we tell them the time to come and pick up the order." The restaurant hasn't decided about reopening as of now. It completely depends on the number of cases. We are just going with the flow," adds Adiga.

Don't discount precautionary measures on your next shopping trip. Here are some tips that will help you stay safe yet stylish

ON A SAFETY SPREE

● Simran Ahuja

Gone are the days one could browse freely through a mall for some window shopping. Pre-COVID, heading out for some retail therapy didn't need a second thought. While the same carefree attitude is no longer present, the experience doesn't have to be all that daunting either. A few precautions can go a long way and according to experts, the first step begins right in front of your own wardrobe.

"Think about what you want versus what you need," says Sayesha Sachdev, creative director of city-based sustainable fashion brand Core. Given the need for social distancing right now, simple questions about being able to repurpose an already existing garment in your closet might help keep you safer. But for times when stepping out for something is necessary, don't spend too long in a store. "Outlets are designed to make you shop, things are placed strategically for you to make an impulse decision. But going in with a clear mind about what you want to buy can make you spend lesser time in a shop," suggests Sachdev.

But what's a shopping spree without some trial room modelling? But while trying on clothes is currently not allowed or recommended, Dr Pratik Patil reiterates the golden rules of wearing a mask and washing your hands and sanitising regularly. "Staffers at shops should ideally iron clothes between trials as an added protection measure," points out the consultant, Infectious Diseases, Fortis Hospital, Bannerghatta Road. And since washing your day-out clothes is key, the outfit you choose also plays an important role. Shweta Singh, an assistant professor at Vogue Institute of Art and Design, says polyester clothes would be easier to clean and dry, especially during the monsoon season. "While looking at clothes, use your non-dominant hand more. You'd be less likely to touch your face with the same hand," she adds.

And for those who miss stepping into a trial room, Sachdev recommends looking at apps or platforms that recreate the experience virtually. Constant sanitising in between trials could ruin the durability of an outfit but a feature like this can change the future of shopping, she says, adding that she too is looking at rolling out such a feature for her brand in 5-6 months.

TRIAL AND ERROR

1. Keep your shoulder, chest, waist, hip and arm hole measurements handy
2. Carry a sample pair of trousers or top that you can use to judge the size of the outfit you are buying
3. Use your non-dominant hand to browse through items since you'd be less likely to touch your face with that hand
4. Carry a pair of socks to try on shoes. Keep the socks aside in a separate bag once you are done with the trial
5. Understand the fit, style and aesthetic you are going for before you visit a store or place an order online. This way you can reduce the chances of exchanging a product.

STORIES from far away

● Monika Monalisa

Since the pandemic started, I have been going through various emotions, and wanted to know, 'Do you feel it too?'," asks Soundarya Jayachandran. The city-based singer then started a podcast with the same title, wherein she speaks to people from across the globe about their experience during this time of COVID.

"We hear about a situation in a certain country and most of the time we get a very macroscopic view of it. I try to reach out to people, speaking about what their lives are like and what are the issues they are facing, or something just as simple as how they are feeling. The problems they face are very different from the ones that I – a musician from India – have," says Jayachandran, adding that each episode is around 30 minutes long, and she hosts them twice a week. The show is available on Google Podcasts, iTunes connect and Spotify.

"For example, an Indian student from Spain, who was featured in one of the episodes, spoke about her graduation looking uncertain now and how returning to her parents is also proving to be difficult," she further explains. Citing her conversation with an economist from Dubai, Jayachandran recalls how she figured out that the markets are so volatile right now that very few predictions are coming true. The most recent episode that went on air featured Jayachandran's father who is now in Bahrain. "He is working for a private company there but even if he wanted to return to India, he can't, because there are no flight from Bahrain now," she says.

Jayachandran, who has lived most of her life in Muscat and has been living in Bengaluru with her mother for 6-7 years, says it has been a tough phase for musicians like her, with financial issues yet to fall in place. However, the podcast has helped her understand different perspectives. "Speaking to people and listening to their stories has helped me not victimise myself. It has given a sense of purpose to me," says Jayachandran. Though she started with 13 episodes, she is going to continue with more such interviews, for which she has already started getting messages from people on her social media page. "I am always happy to speak to people from different backgrounds. It teaches you so much," she says.

HOOVES AND HAVE-NOTS: LOW-KEY WEDDINGS LEAVE HORSES IN LURCH

● Express Features

The coronavirus pandemic and the subsequent lockdown has changed life as we knew it. Even as the struggles of various establishments and individuals have been brought to the fore, few have given thought to the plight of animals, especially horses that once prominently figured in weddings.

But city-based Sandesh Raju has been concerned about their plight and spent the lockdown raising funds, requesting contributions for an 'Oats Feed Program' to provide a nutritious diet. "With weddings becoming a rather simple affair with no pomp, and rituals being low-key, horses that were used at weddings are not hired anymore. They have taken a significant hit. The horse owners whose main stay was from these occasions, are now unable to feed the animals adequately. As a result, the health of horses is deteriorating and they are in grave danger," says Raju who runs Samabhava, an equine-care NGO that rescues and provides shelter and care for cart-pulling ponies that are old, injured, blind, and crippled.

Sandesh Raju has helped feed over 150 horses around Palace Grounds

Over the last few weeks, he has been trying to raise ₹50,000. Having reached his goal, he will be distributing 27 bags of oats and carrots on Wednesday. "Frankly, if rescued working ponies are compared with wedding horses, the former lead a life of dignity. Wedding horses are need based and used twice or thrice a month. During the remaining time they have no movement or exercise. Now, they are even struggling for food," says Raju, who has helped feed over 150 horses, including 10 white wedding horses in the bylanes near Palace Grounds.

It all started when lockdown was imposed in March-end, and the tonga owners connected with Raju to tell him of their plight. "Most of them are located in Padarayanapura, which became a containment zone. Horse owners were out of work and didn't know how to gather resources to feed the animals," says Raju, who then came up with various ways to help them out. He even reached out to Bangalore Turf Club requesting oats and bran flakes for wedding horses kept outside Palace Grounds and Shivajinagar. "I had never done something like that before, but the situation demanded so," he says.

Of stereotypes, sacrifices and struggles

● Vidya Iyengar

Twenty-six-year-old Anupama Tej grew up watching her mother, an ardent feminist who, having married young, was not able to attend college and didn't have access to opportunities. "When it came to us, my mother was very particular about our education, struggling to send us to school, and insisted we are financially independent," says Bengaluru-based Tej, whose book, From The Ashes She Rose, captures stories of sacrifices and struggles of women in top positions.

In her book (Notion Press, ₹120), Tej, the COO of Tinystep, a parenting network, brings to the fore stories of Madhavi Irani (Chief Content officer, Nykaa), Malika Sadani (founder, The Moms Co), Nandini Sarkar (Global Head of Diversity and Inclusion, The Boeying Company), Ria Shroff Desai (Head of People Operations, Sula Vineyards) and Nayana Udupi, Marketing Manager, ThoughtWorks. "The struggles for women in the workplace, home or society are pretty much the same. For instance, many young mothers are forced to drop out of the workforce owing to lack of child care support. Or while every woman is asked about the work-life balance, the question is not posed to men," Tej says, adding, "Although I am not a mother yet, I still relate to these, having seen others go through such situations."

The book is an attempt to change these conversations, and capture inspiring tales. "Many a time when a woman goes through a situation, she assumes she is the only one. The idea of putting it out there is to tell women they are not alone in this journey," she says, adding that she hopes to point out biases existing in society. "During my interview for the book, one of them mentioned a visit to a pharmacy with her husband, and upon purchase he was handed the bill. These biases need to be acknowledged and notions need to be changed to build a gender-neutral society," explains Tej whose biggest concern is whether she would be able to do justice to the tales.

During the brainstorming for the book, one of the questions that came up was whether her target audience would be only women. "But the idea is to erase these biases. So, it's for anyone who is willing to admit the stereotypes and sacrifices," she says.

KOLAM CORNER

- This is a freehand rangoli made in Maharashtrian style called Sanskar Bharti rangoli
- Draw a rough outline of the design you are going to make.
- Next start spreading the colours from the centre. And as you spread the colours, keep drawing the design on top of it with white kolam powder.
- After finishing the centre part, spread the colour for next round. Then second around the first one, then third...keep extending to any size.
- You can't reach the center part again when you make a large rangoli so finish the centre part properly and then proceed to the next round.
- For each round, add a different colour and a different design.
- This is an easier and faster method of drawing rangolis.

BRIGHT SPOT

FREEING UP THE EARTH

Brightmark, a San Francisco-based company that is on a mission to re-imagine waste, has partnered with the social enterprise RecycleForce to recycle electronics. Through this venture they are providing meaningful work to ex-convicts, making them partners in building a more sustainable world. While many former convicts find it hard to get a job, through this they have a regular income, and also get to do their bit to save the earth. RecycleForce and Brightmark's mixed-plastics recycling programme aims to produce fuel through plastic. Workers on this project believe that it has saved their life and stopped them from walking down the same path that once put them behind bars.

FIT BIT

ASHTANGA NAMASKARA

(EIGHT LIMBED SALUTATION POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'ashta' means 'eight', 'anga' means 'part' or 'limb' and 'namaskara', means 'bowing' or 'greeting.' This pose is also called knee-chest-chin pose. In this pose, the body is balanced on eight points of contact with the floor: feet, knees, chest, chin and hands. It forms part of the classical Surya Namaskar as sixth sequence pose and is also used as an alternative to chaturanga dandasana. Its focus should be directed to the Manipura chakra as the chest touches the floor in this posture.

STEPS

- Start with the plank pose, making sure your shoulders are directly above your wrists.
- On exhalation, bring the knees to the floor, making sure the toes are tucked.
- Now again after exhalation, bring the chest and finally the forehead to the floor, coming into an ashtanga position, keeping the abdomen and hips off the floor.
- If you can reach the floor, then touch the chin to the ground as it will benefit you more, and breathe into the body.
- You can continue taking deep breaths while you balance the body on your arms, chest and knees.
- If you wish, you can also chant a mantra 'Om Pushne Namaha' which means the greeting to the body that gives the quality.
- Hold the pose for a few breaths and then release from the pose by dropping yourself to the mat.

BENEFITS

- Improves the mobility of the back and increases arm strength while opening up the chest.
- It revitalises and tones the body.
- Relaxes the lumbar region, especially useful for people who are often sitting in uncomfortable positions for extended periods of time.
- Helps the ascent of Kundalini Shakti, creating the right conditions for a profound spiritual transformation.
- Restores the natural curvature of the spine.
- Strengthens the back muscles.
- Improves sexual energy, helping the practice of Brahmacharya, one of the five Yamas of Patanjali.

LIMITATIONS

- If you have problems in the lumbar area and have blood pressure or migraine, avoid this.
- Avoid this pose if you have carpal tunnel syndrome, a wrist injury, or any recent injuries to your neck, shoulder, or elbow.
- If you are pregnant, avoid this pose after the first trimester.

WARPED UP IN UNCERTAINTY

No weddings, no silk supply and no demand for sarees. Worries loom large for handloom weavers, who are left wondering what the future holds for them

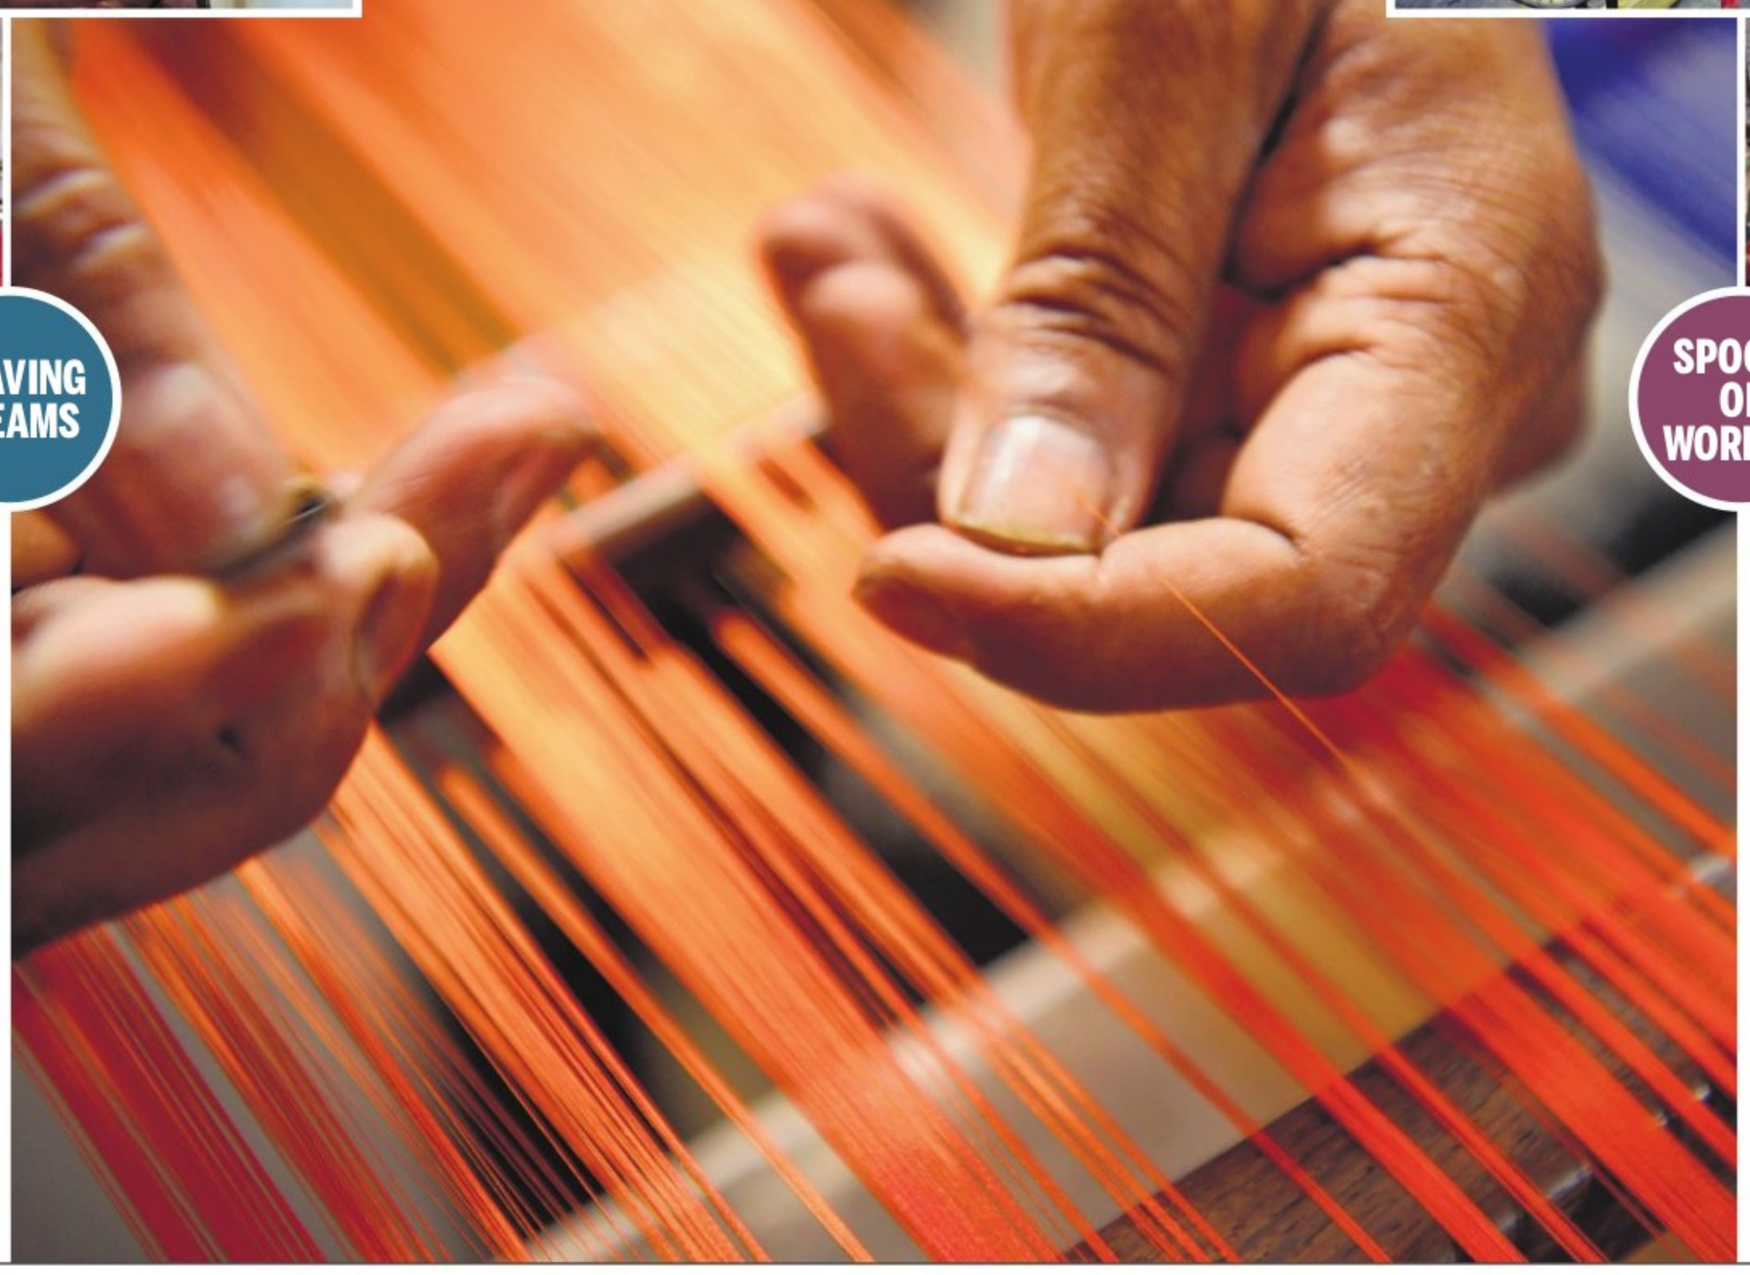
● Pics and text: Meghana Sastry

WEAVING DREAMS

Life before COVID saw weavers toiling away for 12 hours a day, with earnings based on the number of sarees they weave and the complexity of each. A saree that took two-three days to make would fetch a weaver ₹500–1,000 on an average. According to Raghavendra, a weaver in Guruppanapalya, only 30 per cent of weavers managed to live within their means. "Seventy per cent live on loans despite making a living."

Relying solely on his income, Vasu and his wife both became breadwinners to fund their sons' education. Their older son (28) completed M.Com and now works in a bank, whereas the younger one (24) is a B.Com graduate with a job in a factory. "This was possible because we earned a stable income," says Vasu, who resides in Yelahanka Old Town.

With no work now, most weavers have nowhere to go. And not everyone is fortunate enough as Vasu to be supported by their children.



SPOOLS OF WORRIES

Looms are running again, but livelihoods of weavers still hangs by a thread.

This season, which usually sees orders for upcoming festivals, has seen no demand and shops in Cubbonpet and Avenue Road have no business. The situation is dire for many, who have no insurance or pension schemes. Take, for instance, Raghavendra. The 33-year-old could not study beyond Class 10. "I took up weaving because I didn't know anything else," he says.

Today, looms are being used to dry clothes. Many weavers have gone back home, hoping to return soon. Devaraj, 53, says no one is giving them silk. "The ration depot is giving us groceries but there's no income. How do I fund the education of my 19-year-old?"

When the lockdown was announced, weavers were told to complete current orders before they shut. The state announced a relief of ₹2,000 per year per weaver but they say it hasn't reached them.

Good vibes only

Rachita Ram posted a picture of her posing against a pair of butterfly wings that have been painted on a wall. The caption on her Instagram post read: "Let your dreams be your wings!" The actor sure looks like one happy girl. And it's easy to guess why. Ram's Telugu film debut is currently in the pipeline. The actor is shooting for Super Machi at Ramnanaidu studios in Hyderabad. She travelled by road to Telangana to resume shooting post the lockdown, which she says has been a whole new experience for her.

Do you trust your gut?

Vegetables, even in salads, must be well-cooked, boiled or steamed

● Vaishali Vijaykumar

From breaking down food, absorbing nutrients to supporting body functions – your gut is responsible for a lot. Beginning at the mouth, the gut (gastrointestinal tract) is a long tube that ends at the back passage (anus). When the microbiome (genetic material of all microbes -- bacteria, fungi, virus) is thrown off balance, it tries to communicate through bodily signs. Unintentional weight loss, irregular bowel movements, intolerance towards a food item — all these are indications of problems you might be having in the gut. Dr Radha M, consultant gastroenterology, Fortis Malar Hospital, walks us through the ways in which an unhealthy gut can manifest itself and a few pointers to keep track of its functioning.

■ Acidity: If you have a burning sensation or discomfort it means your acid reflux is high. Avoid citrus fruits such as tomato, onion, lemon, and orange because it can aggravate the existing condition. Avoid raw food. Vegetables must be well-cooked, boiled or steamed, even in the case of salad, and then consumed.

■ Lactose intolerance: Many people may have a milk protein allergy. They constantly feel bloated, experience gastric problems and indigestion. Milk should be avoided in that case. Try yoghurt, probiotics, curd and buttermilk as alternatives for calcium.

■ Stress: Gut health is also related to anxiety, depression and emotional problems. During the lockdown, change in lifestyle has resulted in anxiety and fear among many. This has led to loss of appetite, stomach pain, indigestion and bloating.

■ Diet pattern: Irrespective of which diet chart you follow, it must contain carbohydrates, proteins and fats in sufficient portions. Calories according to your body weight is important. Otherwise, you will be prone to micronutrient deficiency. Zinc, iron and vitamin C deficiencies are common during the lockdown. A nutrient-rich diet can improve your gut health and help prevent stomach infections.

■ Bowel movement: Consume lots of fluids, especially two to three litres of water every day. Since all of us are confined to home, our bowel movement may be affected. Regular walking and any form of exercise help prevent constipation. In some cases, people consume fibre for a better bowel movement but if it's not effective then avoid it. Fibre intolerance can also be linked to gut-related problems. Even if you have fresh juice, filter the fibre and consume.

■ Age: The food you eat plays a role in the bacterial make-up of your body. Elderly people must take curd every day as it contains bacteria that helps with digestion. They must maintain a good vitamin D level as it plays a role in affecting intestinal bacteria.

■ Other gut-related problems: If any stomach problem persists for more than 14 days then get a diagnosis. Do not ignore it and label it as indigestion. The root cause for any infection is related to hands. By taking good care, many communicable diseases can be avoided. Wash your hands before consuming food.

■ Danger signs: Keep track of these five signs that determine the condition of your gut health. People above 50 must get their stomach problems checked. One of the main signs is blood in stools or vomit. Another is difficulty in swallowing. Those with family history of stomach or colon cancer must be extra cautious. Weight loss and uneasiness. Sometimes the imbalance fixes on its own otherwise it may manifest in chronic conditions.

■ Control measures: Avoid junk and oily food. Opt for bacteria-rich food like probiotics. Eat vegetables and fruits rich in vitamins and anti-oxidants.

Ridding my house of Chinese products

As tensions with China escalated across the border, a few concerned citizens stepped up to the challenge of defeating China. They did this by smashing television sets -- a move that sent shivers down the enemy's spine. Of course, they'd have to buy a new TV and thus boost the Chinese economy further. But it's the effort that counts. Not to be left behind, I decided to join the fight against our neighbour by ridding my house of all things Chinese.

Since I do not possess a television, I decided to look around my house for other Chinese products. With a pang of guilt, I remembered that I had purchased many spoons, mugs and buckets at a wholesale shop named 'China Bazar'. I quickly realised that China is not just against India, but against the entire planet. Enraged, I looked around the rest of the house.

I found old packets of green tea (tea was invented in China, FYI) and quickly threw them away. I had never liked the taste to be honest.

I also found an old board of Chinese Chequers – I wanted nothing to do with either the Chinese or their chequers. So caught up was I in the act that I misread moisturiser as 'maoisturiser'! I found some packets of Manchow soup that were quickly disposed of. The only regret I have is of breaking the Chinese Mosquito Killer Tennis Racket. The mosquitoes in my house had been enjoying the blissful lives of grihasti, till the racket came to our house like a Bramhaastra. I would request other countries of the world to make their own versions of Chinese Mosquito Killer Tennis Racket – it is truly one of the greatest inventions of the century. Upon further inspection, I found that my bike is thankfully Japanese. Chanakya says an enemy's enemy is our friend, so I washed it and showered it with love and affection.

Done with the peripheral cleansing, I decided to look further. I found that my laptop was made in China, but only in parts. Since we are more than the sum of our parts, I spared my laptop from any damage. But I found that my phone has been manufactured and assembled in China. How was I supposed to throw away the device that I most interacted with during the day? I did some research on WhatsApp and found that Chinese companies are using their phones to track us and our activities. That is when I decided that I'd let them track me.

If there are Chinese military officials tracking my phone, they will get a dozen spam calls a day, along with warnings from credit card companies. They will also be inundated with hundreds of SMS a day on all kinds of offers and schemes. Pizza places, and astrology tips and a welcome message into a gym that has been shut down due to the pandemic (which was also started in China!). All this unnecessary information is sure to demoralise the enemy!

But something seemed to be missing. I needed to make a greater sacrifice, something that would send a strong message. And that is when, like China's Corona-spreading 5G signals, a brainwave hit me. I have decided to say no to Chinese pornography on the Internet. Modiji has banned pornographic sites, but they keep mushrooming. In these trying circumstances, I have decided to say 'No' to Chinese pornography. I would expect no less from you, my dear fellow countrymen! It's time to take matters into our own hands!

'WOULD LOVE TO DO KANNADA FILMS IF GOOD WORK COMES MY WAY'

... says Saymuktha Hegde to everyone asking the actor why she isn't appearing in any Kannada films; says she can speak the language fluently and is talented enough to be a part of the industry

Samyuktha Hegde

A Sharadhaa

Samyuktha Hegde has nailed the art of staying busy, even without any shooting during the lockdown. The Kirik Party hudugi, who comes with a bundle of talent, has been creating a buzz on social media - either with her incredible dancing skills, exercise or other interesting activities. Samyuktha is not just staying safe but also keeping herself occupied. "I can't stay still," says the actor, who misses working and the gym. The dancing enthusiast has also enrolled herself in new art forms, which include hooping, a floor art, for a month now. "I am learning how to write and cook and have taken acting classes from a couple of people. All of this is online," she says, adding, "I am glad I am staying with my parents. I don't think I would have survived this alone."

Samyuktha has also made her mark in Kollywood with films like Watchman, and her last flick, Comali, which was opposite Jayam Ravi. She has been approached by a handful of Tamil filmmakers and has gone through a few scripts during the lockdown. But nothing has been finalised from her end. "I want life to get back to normal. That's when I would want to take it forward. I had plans to move to Chennai before the lockdown but with the current condition in Chennai, it is going to take a little more time," says Samyuktha, who hinted at signing a Tamil film, while being reluctant to reveal anything more. "I will talk about it only when the film goes on floors," she says.

Samyuktha who will be seen next in Thurthu Nirgamana, also makes it a point to reply to her fans, who have been constantly enquiring why she hasn't been a part of any other Kannada projects. "I would love to do Kannada films, if good work comes my way. As an actor, I would love to grow in the language I began working in, where I also belong. I am born here and can speak Kannada more fluently than a lot of other actors from here. I think I am talented enough to be part of my industry," she says, adding that she is comfortable doing many things, from riding a bike to dancing in the rain. "I have other industries offering me good work and I am happy they appreciate the art and my skills. I hope they do this here as well," she says.

Sakath team to come up with musical rap motion poster for Ganesh's birthday

A still from Sakath

CE Features

The team of Sakath is planning to come up with a motion poster on Golden Star Ganesh's birthday on July 2. Director Suni, who is working on it along with other crew members, is trying to make it unique by blending rap music into it. Judah Sandy, the music director of the film, will be doing the composition. The actor-director duo, who had previously given the hit film Chamak, are collaborating for the second time now. The film is jointly produced under the banner of KVN and Suprith Productions. South Indian actor Surbhi is making her Kannada film debut with it, and the cast also comprises Sadhu Kokila, K+++uripratap, Raghuram, Giri and Dharamanna Kadur. Santhosh Rai Pathaje is handling the camera work. Apart from Sakath, Ganesh also has in his kitty Gaalipata 2, directed by Yogaraj Bhat, and director Mahesh Gowda's Trible Riding. On the other hand, Suni has to complete the Sharan-starrer Avatar Purusha, being made by Pushkar Films. The movie is now in its last stages of shooting.

Vidya Virsh makes her directorial debut with first single, Banjaari

A still from Banjaari

Vidya Virsh, who has appeared in Kannada films like Male, Ram Leela and Vasthu Prakara, and played a lead role in 121#*, is now trying her hands on direction. The actor is coming up with her first Hindi single, titled Banjaari. Hailing from a drama background, which she has inherited from her father and grandfather, she is happy to take forward the passion for direction, and she had her team motivating her. The song Banjaari has been entirely shot in Goa and has been designed and conceptualised by Vidya, and aims to spread awareness and social message about having a rape-free India.

The song has been sung by Shazad Ali, a contestant in Voice of India 2019. It has Indian TikTok star Faiz Baloch, who is popularly known for Team07, sharing screen space with Vidya Virsh, and features a guest appearance made by actor Vinay Chandar, among others. Talking about her first-hand directorial experience, Vidya says, "Direction taught me time management, and handling people with different mindsets. Rather than facing difficulties, I some times landed up in a situation where I got into comical confusions and had a bit of fun. Being a Kannadiga, I also had to manage communication with my co-stars, out of which one understood only Hindi, while the rest of the artistes are foreign nationals," she says.

The Banjaari song will be released by Bollywood singer Ramji Gulati on June 24 on YouTube.

Amanda Seyfried wishes to do another Mama Mia! film

CE Features

Actor Amanda Seyfried says she is optimistic about returning for a third Mama Mia! film. She was part of the 2008 release, Mama Mia!, and its 2018 sequel, Mama Mia! Here We Go Again.

Seyfried said that she would do a third film 'in a heartbeat' in an interview with Collider. "Listen, every single person in that movie would say yes in a heartbeat because we want to hang out with each other," she said. "That's what we talked about last time, like did we ever think that we'd end up here again on an island in Croatia? So yeah, I wish there was a Mamma Mia 3," she added.

She is worried that there might not be enough new musical material to use even if they lock a good script, and cast members returned.

'I'll tell you what -- I've said it before and I'll say it again and I hope I'm wrong again. I don't think there are enough ABBA songs to make a third movie. We'd have to use Super Trooper again and we'd have to use Mamma Mia again and have to use them in a different way," she said.

Amanda Seyfried

Seyfried feels Mama Mia! Here We Go Again was a success with critics when the original film only received mixed reviews.

"Like the first story had to match the stage show. So it was like, they were kind of stuck. With the second story, it could have been anything," she explained.

Composer Shekhar Ravjiani launches his music school

Shilajit Mitra

For years, singer-composer Shekhar Ravjiani of the Vishal-Shekhar duo has mentored contestants on popular reality shows. Extending his passion for nurturing young talent, Shekhar has now launched the GIIS-Shekhar Ravjiani School of Music. A collaboration with the Global Indian International School, the venture will provide personalised musical training to students from across GIIS's 21 global campuses. Shekhar has already started working with hand-picked mentees from India, Singapore, Japan, Malaysia, and UAE. The sessions will be conducted virtually and free of cost.

"I've mentored over 300 contestants across 15 music reality shows," Shekhar shares. "Many of them went on to become successful singers. My teacher, Ustad Niaz Ahmed Khan, used to say that you increase your knowledge by sharing. I now want to give back on a global platform."

Shekhar was invited for a masterclass at GIIS's Singapore campus. Interacting with the students, he was impressed by their cultural diversity and passion for music. The idea he cracked was to create a 'need-based, curated and personalised learning module'. Eschewing large batches, he will be identifying individual aptitudes and designing curricula based on them.

"We have an interesting mix of students," Shekhar explains. "There's a pianist, a violinist and a Carnatic vocal singer. We have a singer who performs western music and another who only sings Mohammed Rafi songs. I have figured out a training course for each one of them based on their talents. We hope this way they can reach their full potential."

Shekhar says he isn't a fan of regimented musical learning. More important, he submits, is that a child enjoys the process of music. "Growing up, I had a piano instructor, Mr Xavier Fenandez, coming to my home. He would teach me theory for 45 minutes and the rest would be for songs. He taught me Lionel Richie's Hello. He taught me pieces I could display to my friends and family. That would bring me a lot of joy." The same approach will now apply to Shekhar's students. "Instead of boring them with theory, I will be teaching them the methods of perfecting their skills and then returning to the academics."

Atul Temurnikar, co-founder and chairman of GIIS, shares Shekhar's vision of experiential learning. The school is working to integrate dedicated music studios and data analytics for capturing student performances. There are also plans to enlist music aspirants to the school's Gold Squad programme. "Under Gold Squad, we send students to various specialised training programmes," Atul says. "We have done that in sports and entrepreneurship so far. That will provide a booster package if a student decides to pursue music seriously."

Both Atul and Shekhar are focused on a mix of organic and virtual learning. "There are students who are training with real instruments. They have no interest in modern gadgets and software," Shekhar shares. "At the same time, there are kids who want to get into music production. I compose, produce and sing my own music, so we are encouraging that too."

With the lockdown underway and international passenger flights suspended, online classes have come in handy. "I conducted two-three classes with the students of GIIS and they were happy learning and demonstrating their skills. That's what music does. In any situation, it puts a smile on your face."

Shekhar started as a contestant on Sa Re Ga Ma Pa in 1997. Along with Vishal Dadlani, he has composed music for over 70 Bollywood films. On television, he has judged shows like The Voice India Kids, Indian Idol Junior, Jo Jeeta Wohi Super Star, Sa Re Ga Ma Pa, and others. The composer and mentor agrees that music is a 'gift' — and cannot be predicted beyond a point.

"Tomorrow, a child could be singing a film song for me or performing at an international arena," he says. "The best I can do is guide them on the right path. The rest will be their hard-work and journey."
